Riot-Scarred Rochester Is Quiet Again

National Guardsmen On Patrol To Keep Uneasy Peace

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—This riot-scarred city emerged today from a bloody weekend of racial violence with four dead, hundreds of injured and massive property damage. An uneasy peace was backed by a combat-ready force of National Guardsmen.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller activated 1,000 guardsmen and ordered them into Rochester to stand by for anti-riot duty if needed.

"Law and order will be maintained in the city of Rochester," the governor declared.

A detachment of 12 open trucks with 18 guardsmen each toured the city's trouble areas in a show of force shortly after the arrival of the guard Sunday night. The men carried rifles with bayonets fixed but had no ammunition.

Three persons were killed and a county official was injured critically Sunday when a helicopter surveying a potential trouble spot smashed into a three-story house and set it afire.

A man was killed by an automobile when he was struck during wild rioting Saturday night, in the height of the racial explosion, and staggered into the street. Two men were shot. One was in critical condition.

More than 600 persons, nearly all Negroes, were arrested. More than 300 other persons were injured, including 35 police officers and several firemen.

Thousands of Negroes participated in rioting throughout the weekend, but police had no estimate of the exact number.

Looters ran wild, pillaging and smashing, especially Saturday night. Liquor stores were a favorite target.

Many rioters were "all fired up on stolen booze," a police official said.

State and local police, working with little rest, were targets of bricks, rocks, bottles, full beer cans, fire bombs and sheets of glass in one outbreak after another.

They answered with tear gas, high-pressure streams from fire hoses and warning shots from their guns. Several individual rioters were clubbed into submission when seized.

The Rochester jail was jammed and a clerk said the property room was filled with "everything you can think of" (Continued on Page Two)

New Step-up Seen In Viet Nam Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—New measures for stepping up the war against Communist guerrillas reportedly are nearly ready for announcement by the United States and Viet Nam. Sources said they do not involve expanding the war into North Viet Nam.

Prime minister Nguyen Khanh of South Viet Nam is expected to announce the new measures next week.

Speculation on steps for bolstering the fight against the Communist guerrillas include these possibilities: sending more U.S. planes, increasing the U.S. training program and sending more U.S. military advisory forces.

Governor Planning Road Trips This Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes will be on the road much of this week.

The governor is spending most of today in northeast Ohio, participating in ground-breaking for two industrial plants in the Twinsburg area.

He was to return late today, spend Tuesday at the Statehouse and travel to county fairs part of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Saturday, he flies to Camp Grayling, Mich., to review the Ohio National Guard's 37th Division which is training there.

Pedestrian Fifth Traffic Fatality

The fifth traffic fatality of the year was recorded in Pickaway County early Sunday morning when Robert Imler, 28, was struck by a southbound car on Route 23 at the edge of the city.

Mr. Imler lived at 119 E. Ohio St. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Imler. He was not married.

State Highway Patrol officials identified the driver of the car as George Walkup, 48, Kendall-ville, Ind. Officers said Imler apparently was crossing Route 23 on foot near Huston St.

Walkup said he saw Imler run onto the highway. He said he swerved his auto to the right to avoid striking him.

HOWEVER, Imler, at the same instant, jumped back into the path of the auto, Walkup said. The body of the victim was 98 feet from the point of impact.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Berger Hospital, Imler apparently was killed instantly by the impact.

Sir Winston Takes Seat In Commons

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, bowed by age and memories, took his seat in the House of Commons at question time today, probably for the last time.

He first entered the House 64 years ago as a sprightly former war correspondent of 25, fresh from his escape from a Boer prison camp and still tanned by the African sun.

Today, at 89, he leaned heavily on a walking stick. Two fellow members—Sir Rolf Dudley-Williams and Capt. L. P. S. Orr—helped him to his usual place in the seat below the gangway.

Parliament published the text of a resolution it will adopt Tuesday in a unique tribute to the father of the House. Churchill will not then be present.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home will move the all-party resolution extolling Sir Winston's services to Parliament and nation. Then opposition Labor Leader Harold Wilson and Liberal Leader Jo Grimond, who signed the motion with Douglas-Home, will speak.

Sir Winston spent just over 45 minutes in the House. He left as soon as question time was completed.

Parliament recesses for the summer Friday and will reassemble only for its formal dissolution before the national election to be held this fall. For the first time since 1900, Sir Winston will not seek re-election.

The driver of the car was not held. He and two passengers were treated for shock at Berger Hospital.

A farm hand, Mr. Imler was born Feb. 7, 1936, in Circleville.

Besides his parents, he is survived by three brothers, William J. Imler, Phoenix, Ariz.; John W. Imler Jr., 161 W. Union St.; Donald E. Imler, Tallon; and one sister, Mrs. Robert Starkey, 108 Margaret Ave.

Funeral services will be 2 p. m. Wednesday in Mader Funeral Home with the Rev. Richard Humble officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p. m. today.

Educators Invited To White House Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, who held separate meetings last week with business and labor leaders, has issued invitations to a large group of educators to meet with him in the White House.

While the White House said the President will be prepared to discuss with the educators any matters they want to bring up, it is expected he will urge their cooperation in helping smooth compliance with the Civil Rights Act.

Stiff Sanctions Are Slapped On Castro

Diplomatic, Trade Curbs Voted by Latin Nations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American republics have slapped strong diplomatic and economic sanctions on Cuba and Fidel Castro has brushed off the actions as impudent and unjust.

A conference of the American foreign ministers Sunday approved a diplomatic break and trade embargo against Cuba and cleared the way for the use of armed force against the Castro regime if it continues subversions against other republics of the hemisphere.

Within hours after the action was taken, there were these reactions:

—Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, said the action "proved once again the ability of the Organization of American States to defend itself against aggression."

—Castro said the OAS is "garbage" and the prime minister declared "the people of Cuba reject as impudent and unjust the sanctions imposed." He issued a "Declaration of Santiago de Cuba" as a reply to the "Declaration of the Americas" of the OAS.

—Tass, the official Soviet news agency, charged that the action set a dangerous precedent and it accused the United States of openly putting pressure on the OAS to take the historic step.

Brink of War Policy Is OK'd By Goldwater

BONN, Germany (AP)—A leading West German magazine says Sen. Barry Goldwater told one of its correspondents: "The only person who is respected is the one who clearly says—when necessary—that he is determined to go to extremes."

"That is a policy that your country and all successful countries have followed throughout the past thousand years," the Republican presidential candidate is quoted as telling Werner Holzer, a correspondent for the weekly magazine Revue.

In a statement issued in Washington, Goldwater said he had not given an interview to the German newspaper—"He only asked me a few questions." Holzer said Sunday night he met Goldwater on July 4 at Prescott, Ariz., and told him he had been trying to get an appointment for an interview. He said the senator suggested they talk then and there.

Holzer wrote that Goldwater told him:

"My ideas for a successful American foreign policy correspond generally to the policy of the Eisenhower government and Secretary of State Dulles. You must always show yourself ready to throw in everything if you want to be respected and you are fighting for peace."

The report said Goldwater replied in the affirmative when Holzer asked him: "So a policy of 'up to the brink of war' as Secretary of State Dulles long held to be correct?"

13th U.S. Moonshot Is Delayed by Day

Police Trim Harlem Patrol

Negro Leaders Ask Background Probe

NEW YORK (AP)—Police patrols have been sharply reduced in Harlem and Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section as peace prevailed in the areas over the weekend.

Negro leaders, saying the racial situation may be entering a constructive phase, urged quick action to deal with the issues underlying Negro unrest—jobs, housing, schools and alleged police brutality.

As police patrolled Sunday in pairs, instead of in groups, a department spokesman said: "We hope this will return the situation to normal."

At various spots in Brooklyn Sunday night, three kerosene-filled bottles were thrown, one into a real estate office doorway, another into the entrance of a tavern, while a third burned in the street. A man in the tavern was reported burned on the right arm and neck.

Damage was slight and there were no disturbances on the streets at the time, police said.

In other developments Sunday:

City Councilman Arthur J. Katzman said he will ask the council to seek Mayor Robert F. Wagner's support in creating a citizens committee to investigate the July 16 shooting of a Negro boy by a white policeman. The boy's death sparked last week's riots.

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy has consistently opposed creation of a citizens review board to investigate charges of brutality and other complaints against police.

On Saturday afternoon, police arrested William Epton, 32, Harlem Negro and avowed Communist, when he appeared on a Harlem street to lead a protest march. Murphy had banned the demonstration.

Epton, leader of the Harlem Defense Council, an offshoot of the Communist-controlled Progressive Labor Movement, had predicted 1,000 marchers. Several hundred persons appeared, mostly spectators. Police quickly dispersed them.

Epton and his attorney, Conrad J. Lynn, 54, were charged with unlawful assembly and released.

Drownings, Traffic Kill 24 Over Weekend

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Drownings nearly replaced traffic accidents as the major killer of Ohioans over the weekend. Eleven persons—eight of them children—were drowning victims. At least 13 other Ohioans lost their lives in traffic accidents and five others died from miscellaneous causes to bring the total weekend accidental death toll up to 29.

Hoffa Is Found Guilty of Fraud

CHICAGO (AP)—A jury out for three days found Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa and six others guilty Sunday of a massive scheme to defraud a $280-million union pension fund.

Hoffa, a trustee of the pension fund, was convicted in U.S. District Court on four counts of fraud and conspiracy and faces 20 years in prison and a $13,000 fine.

Each codefendant was found guilty of at least one fraud charge and one of conspiracy. The indictment included 20 mail fraud charges and one conspiracy charge.

The men specifically were convicted of fraudulently arranging more than $20 million in loans from the pension fund and diverting more than $1 million to their own use.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy hailed the decision and complimented the jury and prosecutors in a statement from his summer home in Hyannis Port, Mass.

Hoffa faces a maximum sentence of $1,000 fine and five years on each of the fraud counts and $10,000 and five years on the conspiracy count.

It was Hoffa's fifth federal prosecution since 1957—and his second loss in six months. In February he was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 at Chattanooga, Tenn., for attempting to bribe a jury. He has appealed that conviction.

It took two weeks for opposing attorneys to agree on the eight-man, four-woman jury. During the trial, the jurors were kept under lock and key at the Great Lakes Naval Base 30 miles north of Chicago and permitted only one monitored telephone call per day.

Ghoul Steals Girl's Body, Slashes It

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP)—Police searched today for a night-roaming ghoul who stole the body of a 14-year-old girl from its casket, then abandoned it slashed and naked in an alley.

The body of Theresa Koertgen was taken Saturday night from a Skokie funeral home by an intruder who broke in through a window.

Some 20 hours later, an Evanston motorist nearing his garage in the early hours saw the body in the alley behind his home.

Later Sunday, a long-sleeved yellow dress believed to be the one in which the girl had been laid out for burial was found in an alley on the north side of Chicago.

Capt. Edward Caulfield, head of the Skokie police force, described the crime, technically only a burglary, as "unbelievable in this day and age." The theft and mutilation of the corpse pointed to a demented man, he said.

Boy, Oh, Boy!! Will He Get It!!

GLOBE, Ariz. (AP)—Twelve-year-old Peter Grothe of Globe has a cold, and was on strict orders from Mom to stay out of the water over the weekend.

However, while playing along the banks of Pinal Creek Sunday, he saw 5-year-old Beth Golden being swept downstream. She had been wading in the creek near her home and was carried out of the shallow water into the swift current.

Peter jumped in the water, grabbed the girl and held tight as they were swept another 150 feet downstream. Then he helped the girl scramble ashore.

"Boy, I'll get it when I get home," said the boy to a sheriff's deputy. "I've got a cold and wasn't supposed to get wet."

findings on 147 charges — 21 naming each defendant. They had deliberated 17½ hours, returning to Great Lakes Friday and Saturday nights.

Judge Richard B. Austin set Aug. 17 for rulings on motions made immediately by defense attorneys for arrest of judgment, a directed verdict of acquittal despite the jury's findings, or a new trial. He ruled the defendants could remain free under present bond arrangements until the hearings.

One defendant, Benjamin Dranow, 56, a former Minneapolis businessman now serving a prison term for tax fraud, was returned to jail.

The government's conspiracy conviction resulted from its charge that Hoffa and the others schemed to rescue Hoffa from a failing investment in a real estate project near Orlando, Fla.

Besides Hoffa and Dranow, the defendants are: Samuel Hyman, Calvin Kovens and Abe I. Weinblatt of Miami Beach; Achard Strate Jr. of New Orleans and S. George Burris of New York.

Herbert Burris of New York, son of George, was freed on a directed verdict during the trial.

Goldwater Maps Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater mapped campaign strategy today in conferences with his top advisers.

The Arizona senator met his campaign hands—among them Republican National Chairman Dean Burch and general director Denison Kitchell—at his northwest Washington apartment.

Press secretary Edward K. Nellor said Goldwater planned to spend much of the day there.

Rep. William Miller, the GOP vice-presidential nominee, also arrived back in Washington today from his upstate New York home where he has been vacationing since the Republican National Convention.

The Arizona senator leaves Thursday for a vacation in California. He plans to return to Washington about Aug. 6 and is expected to formally launch his presidential campaign in Prescott, Ariz., during the third week in August.

Ranger 7 Slated To Take Photos

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—An attempt to launch the camera-carrying Ranger 7 spacecraft to the moon was postponed today because of technical problems in ground support equipment.

The launching was rescheduled for Tuesday in a time period between 11:50 a.m. and 1:58 p.m. (EST).

Sixteen hours after launching, a ground station is to send a radio signal to fire a payload motor and jockey the craft into a collision course with the moon.

If Ranger 7 succeeds, it will break a string of 12 straight moon launching failures dating to 1958. The launching is the first American attempt since Ranger 6 failed to transmit pictures last February, although it hit the moon.

The record has seriously hindered the gathering of data for locating possible astronaut landing areas and for designing the Apollo spacecraft in which they will ride.

In a 13-minute, 40-second session before Ranger 7's lunar landing, its six television cameras are to snap more than 4,000 pictures and transmit them to Goldstone, Calif., for processing.

The cameras were geared to operate from an altitude of 1,120 miles to the moment before impact.

Space agency officials said the close-in photos might enable analysts to distinguish objects on the moon the size of an automobile. Astronomers using the best earth-based telescopes can't distinguish features much less than a mile in diameter.

Scientists hoped to maneuver Ranger 7 to an area west of the moon's center, on the left as seen from earth, where lighting is most favorable. The goal was to obtain pictures of Maria, large dark areas which appear to be relatively flat and thus possible astronaut landing spots.

The precise landing point is to be determined after Ranger 7 is airborne.

The spacecraft was fitted with two wide-angle cameras and four with narrow angles.

Second Gemini Crew Selected

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II were selected today as the crew for the second manned Gemini space flight.

Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young were selected in April for the first manned Gemini mission scheduled late this year. Their backup crew includes Walter M. Schirra and Thomas P. Stafford.

McDivitt, who was 35 on June 10, is a native of Chicago, a graduate of the University of Michigan, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. James McDivitt, Jackson, Mich.

White, 33, was born in San Antonio, Tex., and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. White, St. Petersburg, Fla.

President Leads White House Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approximately 200 tourists had an unexpected surprise Sunday—a tour of the White House grounds conducted by President Johnson.

After the Johnsons returned to the White House from church services, the President saw a group standing outside a gate of the White House grounds. He shook hands with some, then invited them into the grounds for a walk. About 100 tourists joined him.

Then he walked to another gate and invited about 100 more to join in the walk. After a stroll around the grounds, the President said he had to go to lunch and the tourists departed.

Riot-Scarred Rochester Is Quiet Again

National Guardsmen On Patrol To Keep Uneasy Peace

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—This riot-scarred city emerged today from a bloody weekend of racial violence with four dead, hundreds of injured and massive property damage. An uneasy peace was backed by a combat-ready force of National Guardsmen.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller activated 1,000 guardsmen and ordered them into Rochester to stand by for anti-riot duty if needed.

"Law and order will be maintained in the city of Rochester," the governor declared.

A detachment of 12 open trucks with 18 guardsmen each toured the city's trouble areas in a show of force shortly after the arrival of the guard Sunday night. The men carried rifles with bayonets fixed but had no ammunition.

Three persons were killed and a county official was injured critically Sunday when a helicopter surveying a potential trouble spot smashed into a three-story house and set it afire.

A man was killed by an automobile when he was struck during wild rioting Saturday night, in the height of the racial explosion, and staggered into the street. Two men were shot. One was in critical condition.

More than 600 persons, nearly all Negroes, were arrested. More than 300 other persons were injured, including 35 police officers and several firemen.

Thousands of Negroes participated in rioting throughout the weekend, but police had no estimate of the exact number.

Looters ran wild, pillaging and smashing, especially Saturday night. Liquor stores were a favorite target.

Many rioters were "all fired up on stolen booze," a police official said.

State and local police, working with little rest, were targets of bricks, rocks, bottles, full beer cans, fire bombs and sheets of glass in one outbreak after another.

They answered with tear gas, high-pressure streams from fire hoses and warning shots from their guns. Several individual rioters were clubbed into submission when seized.

The Rochester jail was jammed and a clerk said the property room was filled with "everything you can think of." (Continued on Page Two)

New Step-up Seen In Viet Nam Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—New measures for stepping up the war against Communist guerrillas reportedly are nearly ready for announcement by the United States and Viet Nam. Sources said they do not involve expanding the war into North Viet Nam.

Prime minister Nguyen Khanh of South Viet Nam is expected to announce the new measures next week.

Speculation on steps for bolstering the fight against the Communist guerrillas include these possibilities: sending more U.S. planes, increasing the U.S. training program and sending more U.S. military advisory forces.

Some 20 hours later, an Evanston motorist nearing his garage in the early hours saw the body in the alley behind his home.

Later Sunday, a long-sleeved yellow dress believed to be the one in which the girl had been laid out for burial was found in an alley on the north side of Chicago.

Capt. Edward Caulfield, head of the Skokie police force, described the crime, technically only a burglary, as "unbelievable in this day and age." The theft and mutilation of the corpse pointed to a demented man, he said.

Boy, Oh, Boy!! Will He Get It!!

GLOBE, Ariz. (AP)—Twelve-year-old Peter Grothe of Globe has a cold, and was on strict orders from Mom to stay out of the water over the weekend.

However, while playing along the banks of Pinal Creek Sunday, he saw 5-year-old Beth Golden being swept downstream. She had been wading in the creek near her home and was carried out of the shallow water into the swift current.

Peter jumped in the water, grabbed the girl and held tight as they were swept another 150 feet downstream. Then he helped the girl scramble ashore.

"Boy, I'll get it when I get home," said the boy to a sheriff's deputy. "I've got a cold and wasn't supposed to get wet."

findings on 147 charges — 21 naming each defendant. They had deliberated 17½ hours, returning to Great Lakes Friday and Saturday nights.

Judge Richard B. Austin set Aug. 17 for rulings on motions made immediately by defense attorneys for arrest of judgment, a directed verdict of acquittal despite the jury's findings, or a new trial. He ruled the defendants could remain free under present bond arrangements until the hearings.

One defendant, Benjamin Dranow, 56, a former Minneapolis businessman now serving a prison term for tax fraud, was returned to jail.

The government's conspiracy conviction resulted from its charge that Hoffa and the others schemed to rescue Hoffa from a failing investment in a real estate project near Orlando, Fla.

Besides Hoffa and Dranow, the defendants are: Samuel Hyman, Calvin Kovens and Abe I. Weinblatt of Miami Beach; Achard Strate Jr. of New Orleans and S. George Burris of New York.

Herbert Burris of New York, son of George, was freed on a directed verdict during the trial.

Goldwater Maps Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater mapped campaign strategy today in conferences with his top advisers.

The Arizona senator met his campaign hands — among them Republican National Chairman Dean Burch and general director Denis Kitchel — at his northwest Washington apartment.

Press secretary Edward K. Nellor said Goldwater planned to spend much of the day there.

Rep. William Miller, the GOP vice-presidential nominee, also arrived back in Washington today from his upstate New York home where he has been vacationing since the Republican National Convention.

The Arizona senator leaves Thursday for a vacation in California. He plans to return to Washington about Aug. 6 and is expected to formally launch his presidential campaign in Prescott, Ariz., during the third week in August.

Ranger 7 Slated To Take Photos

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—An attempt to launch the camera-carrying Ranger 7 spacecraft to the moon was postponed today because of technical problems in ground-support equipment.

The launching was rescheduled for Tuesday in a time period between 11:50 a.m. and 1:58 p.m. (EST).

Sixteen hours after launching, a ground station is to send a radio signal to fire a payload motor and jockey the craft into a collision course with the moon.

If Ranger 7 succeeds, it will break a string of 12 straight moon launching failures dating to 1958. The launching is the first American attempt since Ranger 6 failed to transmit pictures last February, although it hit the moon.

The record has seriously hindered the gathering of data for locating possible astronaut landing areas and for designing the Apollo spacecraft in which they will ride.

In a 13-minute, 40-second session before Ranger 7's lunar landing, its six television cameras are to snap more than 4,000 pictures and transmit them to Goldstone, Calif., for processing.

The cameras were geared to operate from an altitude of 1,120 miles to the moment before impact.

Space agency officials said the close-in photos might enable analysts to distinguish objects on the moon the size of an automobile. Astronomers using the best earth-based telescopes can't distinguish features much less than a mile in diameter.

Scientists hoped to maneuver Ranger 7 to an area west of the moon's center, on the left as seen from earth, where lighting presently is most favorable. The goal was to obtain pictures of Maria, large dark areas which appear to be relatively flat and thus possible astronaut landing spots.

The precise landing point is to be determined after Ranger 7 is airborne.

The spacecraft was fitted with two wide-angle cameras and four with narrow angles.

Second Gemini Crew Selected

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II were selected today as the crew for the second manned Gemini space flight.

Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young were selected in April for the first manned Gemini mission scheduled late this year. Their backup crew includes Walter M. Schirra and Thomas P. Stafford.

McDivitt, who was 35 on June 10, is a native of Chicago, a graduate of the University of Michigan, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. James McDivitt, Jackson, Mich.

White, 33, was born in San Antonio, Tex., and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. White, St. Petersburg, Fla.

President Leads White House Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approximately 200 tourists had an unexpected surprise Sunday—a tour of the White House grounds conducted by President Johnson.

After the Johnsons returned to the White House from church services, the President saw a group standing outside a gate of the White House grounds. He shook hands with some, then invited them into the grounds for a walk. About 100 tourists joined him.

Then he walked to another gate and invited about 100 more to join in the walk. After a stroll around the grounds, the President said he had to go to lunch and the tourists departed.

Mormon Pioneer of 104 Wows 'em in Utah Chapel

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—A little brown-eyed lady of 104 stood up and made a speech in one of this city's churches Sunday night and wowed the audience for 29 minutes.

She was Hilda Erickson, Utah's last living pioneer to cross the Plains from the East before the railroads came.

When it came time for her to appear at the Federal Heights Ward chapel of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, she was offered a throat microphone.

"This will allow you to sit while you talk," Mrs. Erickson was advised.

"I'd rather stand than sit," she said. Behind her, her only daughter, Amy Hicks, 80, watched proudly.

Her husband, John Erickson, died in 1944 and the couple's only son died a year later. She now lives alone in Grantsville, Utah.

Mrs. Erickson, who will be 105 in November, grinned at the audience for a moment and then said: "My friends, I don't know what I can tell you. They just run me into this!"

Then she laughed, heartily and delightfully, sewing up her listeners forever.

She had plenty to tell. Mormon missionaries visited her home in Skaraborgs Land, Sweden, in 1866, as a result, she and her mother and two brothers sailed for the United States.

Mrs. Erickson quit grinning when she told about the first leg of the wagon-train trip westward, to Omaha.

"Cholera hit us," she whispered. "There were many, many dead."

Then there were the 10 weeks while oxen dragged the wagon train from Omaha to Salt Lake City.

After reaching this city October 22, 1866, Hilda Erickson's family moved first to Mount Pleasant, Utah, then to Grantsville in 1868.

She got married in 1882 and the Mormon Church assigned her and husband John to be missionaries to the Goshute Indians in a wild, barren area 65 miles south of Wendover, Utah.

"We taught the Indians to sew and farm," she said. "When they got sick, I took care of them. We did a whole lot of good amongst those Indians. I even pulled the old Indians' teeth."

You can't very well cheer in a chapel, but the audience wanted to.

Two Injured In Collision On Route 23

Two persons were injured late Saturday and two cars heavily damaged in a collision on Route 23 at the intersection of Route 361, seven miles south of Circleville.

Robert Ortaz, 26, Columbus, and Clyde Pennington, Route 1, were the drivers of the cars. Both were southbound.

Pennington, in the right hand lane of traffic, started to make a left turn. He pulled into the path of Ortaz's vehicle, officers said.

Ortaz was in the process of passing Pennington at the time according to officials of the State Highway Patrolmen, who investigated.

Pennington was cited for making an improper turn. He received a laceration of the head.

Mary Ortaz, 22, sustained contusions and abrasions of the leg.

Portuguese Train Crash Fatal to 104

OPORTO, Portugal (AP)—A speeding railway car packed with holidaymakers on the way home from the beach came uncoupled Sunday night, ricocheted back and forth on walls beside the track and overturned down an embankment.

Hospital sources said 104 passengers were killed and more than 100 injured. It was the worst disaster in the history of the privately owned Portuguese Railway Co.

The company ordered a commission of three engineers to investigate the derailling near Custosio, about three miles from Oporto.

A company spokesman said the rear unit of the two-car diesel train snapped its couplings, jumped the track and "careened down a section of track flanked by walls, slamming back and forth between them."

"It dropped from the embankment and turned over where the walls came to an end," he added.

The impact destroyed one side of the steel and wood car, crushing passengers as it caved in.

Witnesses said the rear unit appeared to fishtail as it left a curve just ahead of the walled-in stretch of track. Passengers in the front car were not hurt.

Senate Leaders To Push For Foreign Aid Bill OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders hope to hand President Johnson another victory this week by passing his $3.4-billion foreign aid authorization bill without major changes.

But their chances of matching last week's performance, when they put through the administration's high-priority antipov-erty bill, are threatened by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Morse, who has been gunning for the bill for weeks, has a flock of amendments ready, aimed at trimming it by $466 million. He says it could take a week to dispose of them.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicts passage this week without any "crippling cuts."

Before it can get into the foreign aid fight the Senate must dispose of a resolution growing out of the investigation of the financial dealings of Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democrats. The resolution would require senators and Senate employees to make annual disclosure of their incomes.

It may have been disposed of Friday night when the Senate voted to create a permanent bipartisan committee to police the conduct of senators and Senate employees.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the action had taken "a lot of steam" out of the disclosure resolution. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said it had made the resolution unnecessary.

Mansfield, who hopes to complete the Senate's business before the Democratic National Convention starts in Atlantic City on Aug. 24, has two appropriations bills ready for action this week in case the foreign aid bill is finished up early.

They would appropriate $46.7 billion for the Defense Department and $210.3 million to run Congress.

House action this week centers on two bills, one increasing Social Security benefits and raising the tax that supports them, and the other creating a national wilderness system.

House leaders hope to clear the antipov-erty bill for floor action next week. It comes up for a vote in the Rules Committee Tuesday. That's the last big legislative chore left for the House except for final action on the money bills after the Senate passes them.

Seven persons were treated and released for the weekend, with lacerations heading the injury list. Other cases were:

William Coleman, 29, Williamsport, cut his right leg on a metal post at his home.

Stephen Greeno, 20, Route 2, Ashville, lacerated his right wrist on a bedroom window.

NEW YORK (AP)—Selective strength featured an irregular stock market early this afternoon.

Some of the blue-chip chemicals and coppers moved higher and steels were on the upside along with a scattering of specially situated issues.

The over-all stock list, however, was fairly scrambled. Motors, rubbers, airlines, oils, rails and farm implements were irregular.

The market seemed to be undergoing further consolidation of the kind shown last week following its thrust to new highs, brokers said, and there was little in the weekend news to inspire a broad upmove.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 320.4, with industrials up 1.0, rails off .5 and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .05 at 845.69.

Wire Down in Alley City police were called at 10 a. m. today to stand guard over an electric wire that fell in an alley behind Kochheiser Hardware.

Stiff Sanctions

The sanctions were approved by a 15-4 vote—as author of the resolution, Venezuela could not vote. Mexico, Chile, Bolivia and Uruguay—the only Latin-American republics maintaining relations with Cuba—voted no.

The foreign ministers' conference was called at Venezuela's request. It invoked the Inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance Dec. 3, after uncovering a three-ton cache of smuggled arms with Cuban markings on a lonely beach in the state of Falcon where most of the oil-rich Venezuela's refineries are located.

The sanctions became official when representatives of 20 nations signed the final act of the ninth conference of foreign ministers of the Americas.

Bolivia announced immediately it would respect the majority decision and Uruguay is expected to follow suit. Chile may do so if a Social Christian government is chosen in the September presidential elections.

Mexico denounced the censure to the Castro regime in speeches to the conference.

In addition, the foreign ministers issued a warning that if the Castro regime persists in carrying out acts of aggression and intervention against one or more OAS members, they may, singly or as a group, use armed force against Cuba.

Actual implementation of the actions must be carried out by the individual governments and it remains to be seen how far each will go in punitive steps.

South Bloomfield Officials Named in $50,000 Lawsuit

A Hillsboro minister has filed a $50,000 lawsuit against the Village of South Bloomfield and three village officials. Two of the defendants are no longer in office.

The minister, the Rev. Lloyd Dean Sheets, named Harold Bowers, Robert Friley and Harold Tosca as defendants in the suit. Bowers is former police chief of the village and Tosca is the former mayor. Friley, who succeeded Bowers as chief, was a village officer at the time.

Rev. Sheets claims that he was "falsely and maliciously" arrested by Bowers and Friley on May 18, 1962, for a traffic violation. He stated that he was imprisoned "with great force and violence" in the village jail and was held there for a considerable time until repeated negotiations by his wife persuaded them to release him from jail with citations to appear before Tosca in the mayor's court.

The petition contends that Bowers and Friley swore to false affidavits filed in the mayor's court to which the plaintiff entered pleas of innocent. Rev. Sheets posted bond on each of the charges to guarantee his appearance at trial.

HE CLAIMS that Bowers and Friley held disregard for his rights as a citizen as "evidenced" by their physical attacks upon him with blackjacks and their attempt "to cause his car to collide with their police cruiser. This, the minister contends, resulted in serious physical injury to his infant daughter who was a passenger in his auto.

Rev. Sheets says that, through his attorney, he was unable to have the charges filed by the South Bloomfield officials disposed by a trial "to which he was entitled by the provisions of law and the constitution."

The petition continues to state that on Aug. 8, 1963 — more than 15 months later — the charges were dismissed by Mayor Tosca in Rev. Sheets' favor.

As a result of the incidents, the minister claims he was required to employ legal counsel and to pay medical bills for his daughter and himself; that he suffered irreparable damages to his reputation as a minister; and that he suffered loss of earnings during the time of his imprisonment.

Rev. Sheets is seeking $25,000 as compensatory damages and another $25,000 in punitive damages.

He is represented by John A. Epling, a Hillsboro attorney.

Mormon Pioneer of 104 Wows 'em in Utah Chapel

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—A little brown-eyed lady of 104 stood up and made a speech in one of this city's churches Sunday night and wowed the audience for 29 minutes.

She was Hilda Erickson, Utah's last living pioneer to cross the Plains from the East before the railroads came.

When it came time for her to appear at the Federal Heights Ward chapel of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, she was offered a throat microphone.

"This will allow you to sit while you talk," Mrs. Erickson was advised.

"I'd rather stand than sit," she said. Behind her, her only daughter, Amy Hicks, 80, watched proudly.

Her husband, John Erickson, died in 1944 and the couple's only son died a year later. She now lives alone in Grantsville, Utah.

Mrs. Erickson, who will be 105 in November, grinned at the audience for a moment and then said: "My friends, I don't know what I can tell you. They just run me into this!"

Then she laughed, heartily and delightfully, sewing up her listeners forever.

She had plenty to tell. Mormon missionaries visited her home in Skaraborgs Land, Sweden, in 1866, as a result, she and her mother and two brothers sailed for the United States.

Mrs. Erickson quit grinning when she told about the first leg of the wagon-train trip westward, to Omaha.

"Cholera hit us," she whispered. "There were many, many dead."

Then there were the 10 weeks while oxen dragged the wagon train from Omaha to Salt Lake City.

After reaching this city October 22, 1866, Hilda Erickson's family moved first to Mount Pleasant, Utah, then to Grantsville in 1868.

She got married in 1882 and the Mormon Church assigned her and husband John to be missionaries to the Goshute Indians in a wild, barren area 65 miles south of Wendover, Utah.

"We taught the Indians to sew and farm," she said. "When they got sick, I took care of them. We did a whole lot of good amongst those Indians. I even pulled the old Indians' teeth."

You can't very well cheer in a chapel, but the audience wanted to.

South Bloomfield Officials Named in $50,000 Lawsuit

A Hillsboro minister has filed a $50,000 lawsuit against the Village of South Bloomfield and three village officials. Two of the defendants are no longer in office.

The minister, the Rev. Lloyd Dean Sheets, named Harold Bowers, Robert Friley and Harold Tosca as defendants in the suit.

Rev. Sheets claims that he was "falsely and maliciously" arrested by Bowers and Friley on May 18, 1962, for a traffic violation. He stated that he was imprisoned "with great force and violence" in the village jail and was held there for a considerable time until repeated negotiations by his wife persuaded them to release him from jail with citations to appear before Tosca in the mayor's court.

The petition contends that Bowers and Friley swore to false affidavits filed in the mayor's court to which the plaintiff entered pleas of innocent. Rev. Sheets posted bond on each of the charges to guarantee his appearance at trial.

HE CLAIMS that Bowers and Friley held disregard for his rights as a citizen as "evidenced by their physical attacks upon him with blackjacks and their attempt" to cause his car to collide with their police cruiser. This, the minister contends, resulted in serious physical injury to his infant daughter who was a passenger in his auto.

Rev. Sheets says that, through his attorney, he was unable to have the charges filed by the South Bloomfield officials disposed by a trial "to which he was entitled by the provisions of law and the constitution."

The petition continues to state that on Aug. 8, 1963 — more than 15 months later — the charges were dismissed by Mayor Tosca in Rev. Sheets' favor.

As a result of the incidents, the minister claims he was required to employ legal counsel and to pay medical bills for his daughter and himself; that he suffered irreparable damages to his reputation as a minister; and that he suffered loss of earnings during the time of his imprisonment.

Rev. Sheets is seeking $25,000 as compensatory damages and another $25,000 in punitive damages.

He is represented by John A. Epling, a Hillsboro attorney.

Two Injured In Collision On Route 23

Two persons were injured late Saturday and two cars heavily damaged in a collision on Route 23 at the intersection of Route 361, seven miles south of Circleville.

Robert Ortaz, 26, Columbus, and Clyde Pennington, Route 1, were the drivers of the cars. Both were southbound.

Pennington, in the right hand lane of traffic, started to make a left turn. He pulled into the path of Ortaz's vehicle, officers said.

Ortaz was in the process of passing Pennington at the time according to officials of the State Highway Patrolmen, who investigated.

Pennington was cited for making an improper turn. He received a laceration of the head.

Mary Ortaz, 22, sustained contusions and abrasions of the leg.

Portuguese Train Crash Fatal to 104

OPORTO, Portugal (AP)—A speeding railway car packed with holidaymakers on the way home from the beach came uncoupled Sunday night, ricocheted back and forth on walls beside the track and overturned down an embankment.

Hospital sources said 104 passengers were killed and more than 100 injured. It was the worst disaster in the history of the privately owned Portuguese Railway Co.

The company ordered a commission of three engineers to investigate the derailling near Custosia, about three miles from Oporto.

A company spokesman said the rear unit of the two-car diesel train snapped its couplings, jumped the track and "careened down a section of track flanked by walls, slamming back and forth between them."

"It dropped from the embankment and turned over where the walls came to an end," he added.

The impact destroyed one side of the steel and wood car, crushing passengers as it caved in.

Witnesses said the rear unit appeared to fishtail as it left a curve just ahead of the walled-in stretch of track. Passengers in the front car were not hurt.

Surviving are one son, Glen J., Columbus; four grandchildren; one sister, Miss Nancy Reiterman, Chillicothe.

One brother and one sister are deceased.

Senate Leaders To Push For Foreign Aid Bill OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders hope to hand President Johnson another victory this week by passing his $3.4-billion foreign aid authorization bill without major changes.

But their chances of matching last week's performance, when they put through the administration's high-priority antipov-erty bill, are threatened by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Morse, who has been gunning for the bill for weeks, has a flock of amendments ready, aimed at trimming it by $466 million. He says it could take a week to dispose of them.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicts passage this week without any "crippling cuts."

Before it can get into the foreign aid fight the Senate must dispose of a resolution growing out of the investigation of the financial dealings of Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democrats. The resolution would require senators and Senate employees to make annual disclosure of their incomes.

It may have been disposed of Friday night when the Senate voted to create a permanent bipartisan committee to police the conduct of senators and Senate employees.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the action had taken "a lot of steam" out of the disclosure resolution. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said it had made the resolution unnecessary.

Mansfield, who hopes to complete the Senate's business before the Democratic National Convention starts in Atlantic City on Aug. 24, has two appropriations bills ready for action this week in case the foreign aid bill is finished up early.

They would appropriate $46.7 billion for the Defense Department and $210.3 million to run Congress.

House action this week centers on two bills, one increasing Social Security benefits and raising the tax that supports them, and the other creating a national wilderness system.

House leaders hope to clear the antipov-erty bill for floor action next week. It comes up for a vote in the Rules Committee Tuesday. That's the last big legislative chore left for the House except for final action on the money bills after the Senate passes them.

Stiff Sanctions

general looked upon them as a forward step.

The sanctions were approved by a 15-4 vote—as author of the resolution, Venezuela could not vote. Mexico, Chile, Bolivia and Uruguay—the only Latin-American republics maintaining relations with Cuba—voted no.

The foreign ministers' conference was called at Venezuela's request. It invoked the Inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance Dec. 3, after uncovering a three-ton cache of smuggled arms with Cuban markings on a lonely beach in the state of Falcon where most of the oil-rich Venezuela's refineries are located.

The sanctions became official when representatives of 20 nations signed the final act of the ninth conference of foreign ministers of the Americas.

Bolivia announced immediately it would respect the majority decision and Uruguay is expected to follow suit. Chile may do so if a Social Christian government is chosen in the September presidential elections.

Mexico denounced the censure to the Castro regime in speeches to the conference.

In addition, the foreign ministers issued a warning that if the Castro regime persists in carrying out acts of aggression and intervention against one or more OAS members, they may, singly or as a group, use armed force against Cuba.

Actual implementation of the actions must be carried out by the individual governments and it remains to be seen how far each will go in punitive steps.

in recovered loot.

The job of trying to keep down the riot was proving a difficult one for the tired police officers, a factor in the decision of city officials to appeal for help from the guard. "We were fighting a defensive battle," a high police officer said.

A dawn-to-dusk curfew was imposed, although there was widespread defiance in the Negro sections.

The sale of all liquor, guns and ammunition was halted indefinitely.

The peak of the rioting occurred Saturday night in the Jefferson Avenue area on the city's west side, a well-kept section populated by the city's more prosperous Negroes.

The area is across town from Joseph Avenue, where the racial violence broke out late Friday night when police sought to arrest a drunken youth at a street dance.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has the problem of trying to take the steam out of Sen. Barry Goldwater's complaints about American foreign policy, particularly on two very sore points: Cuba and Viet Nam.

That he is working at it became clear over the weekend.

To bring Fidel Castro tumbling down, Goldwater has proposed various remedies, at various times—from backing an exile invasion of Cuba to shutting off non-Communist trade with it, even if it meant blockading with warships.

Sunday the American republics, through their foreign ministers, agreed not only on condemning Cuba for aggression

but on approving strong economic and diplomatic sanctions against Castro's regime. The action had strong U.S. backing.

It was the strongest move by a conference of the ministers since Castro grabbed hold of Cuba on Jan. 1, 1959.

One quick way to step up and perhaps end the Communist guerrilla attacks on South Viet Nam would be to extend the war to North Viet Nam. But that might bring Red China directly into the war. The Johnson administration has been reluctant to take the chance.

But Goldwater has said the United States "can and should end the fighting in Viet Nam by taking strong, affirmative action." This is just one of the things he has said. He has offered various suggestions of how to do this, too.

Sunday night The Associated Press said the United States and Viet Nam reportedly are about ready to announce new measures to step up the war.

This story said there has been no indication here as to the exact nature of these new measures.

But, the story said, they will emphasize this country's determination to support the freedom and independence of Viet Nam and do not involve spreading the war to the north.

In both cases—Viet Nam and the U.S.-backed OAS sanctions against Cuba—the Johnson administration could say the new steps were natural developments without any political implications.

But, as Johnson said at his news conference last Friday, "I'm an old campaigner, I've been at it 30 years." Goldwater will have less to complain about if the clamp-down on Cuba gets tighter and the Vietnamese war tougher.

The American states' agreement on Cuba lets them, alone or together, use armed forces against Castro if he continues what the ministers officially described as aggression and subversion against other hemisphere republics.

It remains to be seen what they'll do since the actual carrying out of the actions approved by the foreign ministers must be the job of the individual governments.

Nevertheless Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, called the conference action a "body blow to Communist subversion in this hemisphere."

Mann's appointment to his present job was one of the first actions taken in the foreign affairs field by Johnson after he became president last November.

The mere act of the ministers' agreement won't topple Castro. And at this moment it seems unlikely any of the American states will invade Cuba.

It may even be unrealistic to expect the Latin-American countries which still have diplomatic relations with Cuba to break them off or even to break off all trade with Cuba, at least right away.

Actually, the Latin-American countries do little trading with Castro's Communist regime. But the psychological effect will hurt him and so will any drying up of such trade as there is.

U.S. officials feel this government's sanctions against trade with Cuba have already given Castro acute economic pains. But now the groundwork has been laid for giving him the miseries.

It's a talking point for Johnson, and it may turn out to be a good one.

Priest Asks Pope To Dismiss Cardinal, Kicking Up Controversy for Catholics

By James Marlow

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In the post-World War II years, when the Roman Catholic Church in America began bursting at its parish seams, one of the highest compliments a prelate could earn was to be called "a good brick and mortar man."

For a decade and a half James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, has been regarded as one of the best brick and mortar men in the church.

Since he came to Los Angeles in 1948, Cardinal McIntyre, who gave up a career on Wall Street to enter the priesthood, has amazed his fellow prelates by building a new parochial school every month and new parish every 66 days to keep up with the needs of a flock that is swelling at the rate of 1,000 a week and numbers 1.5 million.

Today, to the shock of Catholics from coast to coast, Cardinal McIntyre has become a central figure in a controversy that has nothing to do with brick and mortar but which many consider even more basic.

He has been accused of "gross malfeasance in office" with failure to provide moral leadership in the race struggle and, moreover, of intimidating priests and laymen who have attempted to give such leadership.

But what has been equally shocking, if not scandalous, to many Catholics who have grown up in respect of their church's hierarchical system, is that the accuser of the venerable cardinal was a 29-year-old priest just four years out of the seminary, and that his accusation was in the form of a letter written to the Pope himself. In the letter, the priest suggested that the Pope ought to fire the cardinal.

He was afraid, explained the priest, that a private communication would merely be ignored. The priest, the Rev. William H. DuBay, plainly hasn't been ignored.

His boldness has set seminary lounges buzzing, has become a chief topic of discussion in rectories and parish halls, has been a major item for Catholic newspapers and magazines, has raised questions about what the church's role should be in the civil rights field, and has caused Catholics everywhere to wonder what's behind the controversy in Los Angeles.

Cardinal McIntyre has declined comment on Father DuBay's statements.

However, about a dozen of the 1,311 priests in the archdiocese share a little joke. They say they are members of the "Cardinal's Carpet Club," or C.C.C.

The club, which includes at least one nun, has one membership qualification: Each member has been called on the cardinal's carpet for speaking or acting on racial issues.

"It used to be funny," says one priest. "Maybe it still is." Another said he got "the business" both from the cardinal and the chancellor, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Benjamin G. Hawkes, administrator of the archdiocese. "It's called the stereo treatment," the priest said. "The cardinal talks into one ear and the monsignor into the other."

The priests, who ask anonymity, say they were carpeted for preaching against segregation or letting interracial harmony groups meet in parish halls.

Msgr. Hawkes had "absolute" no comment.

Fellow priests are loath publicly to support Father DuBay. One who did is the Rev. Terrence Halloran. He told newsmen he advised Father DuBay not to send the letter, "but the charges are substantially true."

In the wake of his letter, the mild-mannered young white priest was suspended from administrative duties in his predominantly Negro parish in suburban Compton. Later, he repeated his oath of loyalty to the cardinal.

While an assistant pastor, he wrote in the church bulletin: "It is obligatory upon every Catholic of the parish to support the multi-racial integration of our community. Get acquainted with Negroes in the same business or profession. Invite them to our homes, and visit in their homes."

The result, Father DuBay has said, was word from the cardinal to write no more on racial matters. Transferred to another parish, he preached one Sunday that segregation was wrong. This, he said, drew a telephone admonishment from Hawkes.

Father DuBay wrote to the cardinal, who called him in. "The cardinal was angry," the priest said. "He told me he didn't believe there was any segregation in Los Angeles and, anyway, it was a political problem."

The next incident, the letter to the Pope, came after Father DuBay had been working in the parish south of downtown Los Angeles where most of the city's 435,000 Negroes live.

Father DuBay announced his letter at a news conference. Five days later, he was called to the chancery and promised newsmen a statement afterward. But when he emerged he said, "I have no comment."

Two days later, in the presence of 250 priests attending a retreat with the cardinal, Father DuBay knelt and repeated his oath of loyalty to Cardinal McIntyre. He kissed the cardinal's ring and both of his hands.

"From the beginning," a friend says, "Father DuBay has protested his loyalty to the archbishop. Cardinal McIntyre is still his superior. He has to obey the law even if he's trying to get the guy out of office. It's just like company policy. Until you can change it you have to obey it."

What Father DuBay wants to change is Cardinal McIntyre's silence.

Has the cardinal been negligent in this respect?

A source close to him says no.

Warren Police Probe 2 Weekend Slayings

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Police continued today investigating two weekend slayings.

Frank Seawood, 36, of Warren, was shot in the chest Saturday night. Dr. Joseph Sudmacker, Trumbull County coroner, said Seawood was shot during an argument at a party. Lorenze Reid, 30, of Warren, was stabbed fatally in the chest early Sunday in the Reid home. Police were holding his 25-year-old wife for questioning.

pointing to past statements on equal rights. The cardinal felt editorials in the archdiocese newspaper were answer enough for Father DuBay, the source said.

One national Catholic magazine published by laymen, The Commonweal, devoted 17 pages of its July 10 issue to the DuBay case and has been in the forefront of subsequent discussion.

Quoting a priest of the archdiocese, The Commonweal said most pastors in the Los Angeles area "think DuBay is a young whippersnapper who deserves everything he's going to get. Most of the others disapproved of publicizing the call for the cardinal's dismissal. Make your case to Rome, ok, but don't spill it all out in the open."

A smaller school of thought, reported The Commonweal, was typified by the remark of a layman:

"His head will roll, sure. And I seriously doubt if it will have any effect on the cardinal's thinking. But now the pressures on him (Cardinal McIntyre) across the country will grow, and we may see the other bishops twisting his arm into joining the rest of the church on this issue."

A central point in the controversy, at least in California, involves an initiative proposal on the state's November ballot which would amend the state constitution to outlaw all present and future laws forbidding racial discrimination in the sale or rental of most housing.

Commenting on this, The Commonweal said:

"In the race of such a dangerous movement, which has some chance of success, one might expect some opposition from the archdiocesan establishment."

"Cardinal McIntyre, however, has refused to speak out on the matter on the grounds that it is a social and political question and not a moral one."

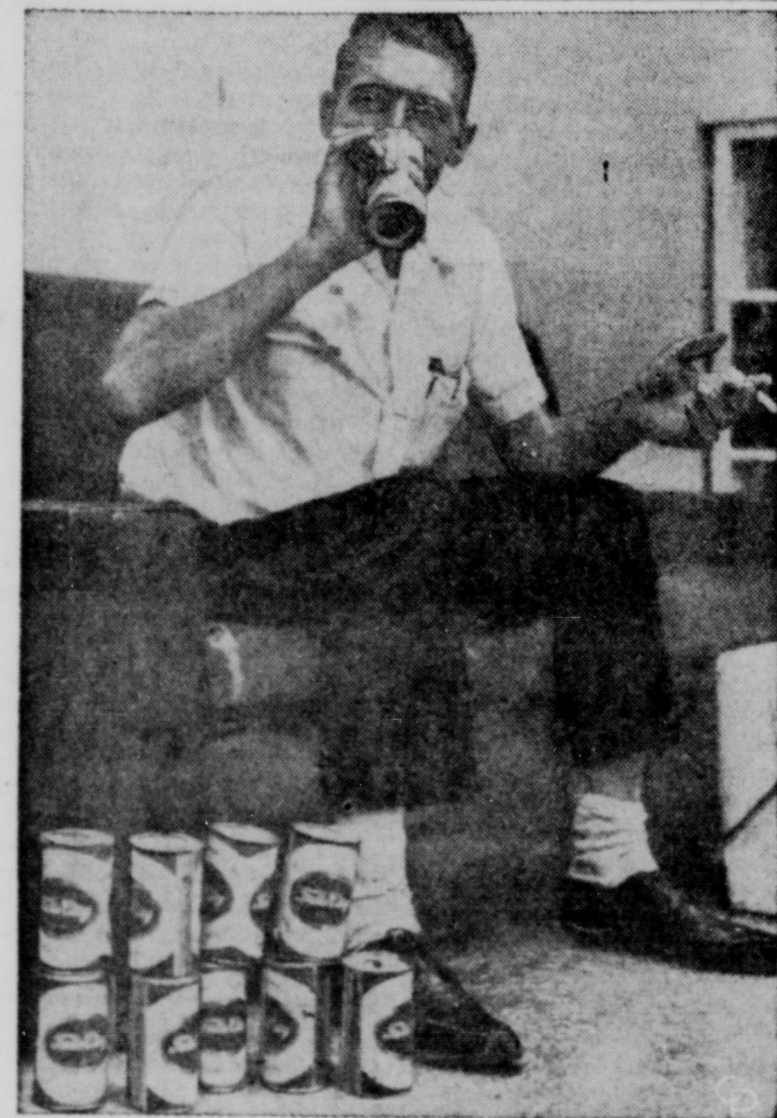

That's the nub of the question. But Catholics watching from the sidelines are equally interested in another aspect of the controversy: What's going to happen to the priest who asked it?

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

"DRUNK? NOT ME!"—Truck driver John Hutchinson, 30, downs the 10th can of beer in a Lexington, Ky., court, attempting to prove to a judge that he can down a dozen without being drunk. Hutchinson was charged with drunk driving, and claimed he had only four beers, and could drink 12 without being drunk. The judge decided to try him. On the 11th, Hutchinson became ill and up came most of the test. "He was what I would call half drunk at the end... too drunk to drive a car," said Judge R. P. Moloney Jr.

Actor Says Fatherhood Helps Him To Stay Young

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Tony Curtis' prescription for staying young: Have children to brighten your middle years.

This might be the enthusiasm of a new father; his wife, Christine Kaufman, recently gave birth to their first child, a daughter.

"Look at her!" exclaimed Tony. "Have you ever seen such a beautiful baby? You know how most babies have wrinkled faces? Look at this one. Not a single wrinkle."

After his burst of paternal pride had simmered down, Tony philosophized about future plans for his family.

"I want to have three or four more children. I want to have them keep coming as I get older, and I'll spend all the time I can with them. I also will work out an arrangement whereby I can have my other two daughters (by Janet Leigh) for two or three months of the year, and maybe take them to Europe with me."

"What a great way to stay young! If you're with your children a great deal, play with them, learn with them, their youth is bound to rub off on you."

This may come as a surprise to those parents who say their children are pushing them into an early grave. But Tony may have a point. And, unlike some film stars, he does not appear to be overly concerned about encroaching age.

"Right now I'm 38½," he remarked. "At that age most men have completed their families. I'm lucky to have a wife who is young enough (19) to go on having children until I'm an old man."

He didn't say whether Christine has been consulted on this matter. But he did report that the German lass is delighted with motherhood.

Tony Curtis is a fellow who does a lot of theorizing about the future, not only for his family, but for his career. He views the latter reality. Even though he appears to be one of Hollywood's busiest stars, he makes no predictions about how long he can last in the business.

"The competition is terrific. It's amazing that television hasn't already knocked off the movies. But television isn't the only competitor. We've got to fight everything else for the entertainment dollar, from baseball to bowling."

"That means an actor has to keep on his toes all the time. The trouble is, you never know when you're slipping. You might think you're going along fine, and suddenly you wake up one morning and find you're in a television series."

It will never happen to him, Tony vowed. As soon as he detects the first signs of slippage, he intends to quit.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has the problem of trying to take the steam out of Sen. Barry Goldwater's complaints about American foreign policy, particularly on two very sore points: Cuba and Viet Nam.

That he is working at it became clear over the weekend. To bring Fidel Castro tumbling down, Goldwater has proposed various remedies, at various times—from backing an exile invasion of Cuba to shutting off non-Communist trade with it, even if it meant blockading with warships.

Sunday the American republics, through their foreign ministers, agreed not only on condemning Cuba for aggression

but on approving strong economic and diplomatic sanctions against Castro's regime. The action had strong U.S. backing. It was the strongest move by a conference of the ministers since Castro grabbed hold of Cuba on Jan. 1, 1959.

One quick way to step up and perhaps end the Communist guerrilla attacks on South Viet Nam would be to extend the war to North Viet Nam. But that might bring Red China directly into the war. The Johnson administration has been reluctant to take the chance.

But Goldwater has said the United States "can and should end the fighting in Viet Nam by taking strong, affirmative action." This is just one of the things he has said. He has offered various suggestions of how to do this, too.

Sunday night The Associated Press said the United States and Viet Nam reportedly are about ready to announce new measures to step up the war.

This story said there has been no indication here as to the exact nature of these new measures.

But, the story said, they will emphasize this country's determination to support the freedom and independence of Viet Nam and do not involve spreading the war to the north.

In both cases—Viet Nam and the U.S.-backed OAS sanctions against Cuba—the Johnson administration could say the new steps were natural developments without any political implications.

But, as Johnson said at his news conference last Friday, "I'm an old campaigner, I've been at it 30 years." Goldwater will have less to complain about if the clamp-down on Cuba gets tighter and the Vietnamese war tougher.

The American states' agreement on Cuba lets them, alone or together, use armed forces against Castro if he continues what the ministers officially described as aggression and subversion against other hemisphere republics.

It remains to be seen what they'll do since the actual carrying out of the actions approved by the foreign ministers must be the job of the individual governments.

Nevertheless Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, called the conference action a "body blow to Communist subversion in this hemisphere."

Mann's appointment to his present job was one of the first actions taken in the foreign affairs field by Johnson after he became president last November.

The mere act of the ministers' agreement won't topple Castro. And at this moment it seems unlikely any of the American states will invade Cuba.

It may even be unrealistic to expect the Latin-American countries which still have diplomatic relations with Cuba to break them off or even to break off all trade with Cuba, at least right away.

Actually, the Latin-American countries do little trading with Castro's Communist regime. But the psychological effect will hurt him and so will any drying up of such trade as there is.

U.S. officials feel this government's sanctions against trade with Cuba have already given Castro acute economic pains. But now the groundwork has been laid for giving him the miseries.

It's a talking point for Johnson, and it may turn out to be a good one.

Priest Asks Pope To Dismiss Cardinal, Kicking Up Controversy for Catholics

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In the post-World War II years, when the Roman Catholic Church in America began bursting at its parish seams, one of the highest compliments a prelate could earn was to be called "a good brick and mortar man."

For a decade and a half James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, has been regarded as one of the best brick and mortar men in the church.

Since he came to Los Angeles in 1948, Cardinal McIntyre, who gave up a career on Wall Street to enter the priesthood, has amazed his fellow prelates by building a new parochial school every month and new parish every 66 days to keep up with the needs of a flock that is swelling at the rate of 1,000 a week and numbers 1.5 million.

Today, to the shock of Catholics from coast to coast, Cardinal McIntyre has become a central figure in a controversy that has nothing to do with brick and mortar but which many consider even more basic.

He has been accused of "gross malfeasance in office" with failure to provide moral leadership in the race struggle and, moreover, of intimidating priests and laymen who have attempted to give such leadership.

Water Desalting Gains

Water desalination is not as dramatic, nor as successful, a scientific pursuit as the Apollo or Mercury space programs, explaining perhaps why little is heard of man's centuries - old dream of converting sea water to a palatable state.

There have been no startling breakthroughs in salt water conversion methods to help bring fresh water to both arid and landlocked regions. Progress which has been made has come hard, but it is now clear conversion at an economical cost will be achieved, probably within the next decade.

In the past 15 years 14 plants have been built throughout the world with a capacity for producing fresh water at a million gallons a day. Three are in the United States. Some of the plants, like those at Kuwait, on the Persian Gulf, and at Elath, Israel, are economically feasible because of the high cost of water in those arid lands.

None of the three U. S. plants are operating near the cost of fresh water already available. The plant in Freeport Texas, built by the Department of Interior's Office of Saline Water, produces fresh water at a cost of $1.17 per thousand gallons. In contrast, water from the Colorado River which supplies the Los Angeles area costs about six cents per thousand gallons.

But 10 years ago the average cost of desalination was approximately $4 per thousand gallons. This is why scientists working on small experimental conversion plants in several parts of the United States are confident that by 1975 they will be producing economical fresh water from the sea.

What this will mean to the world is thrilling to contemplate. More than one-half the land mass is either arid or semi-arid, yet even now this area is occupied by 150 million persons. Provide even a part of this huge region with all the water it can use and the pressure will be off population expansions for another century.

In the United States, it will mean the large desert area of the Southwest and the dry inland areas of the Northern Plains may someday be as fertile as the land adjacent to the Mississippi.

Hokum Peddler

Premier Khrushchev has made his annual speech about how wonderful everything is in the Soviet Union. He is still burying us.

In its competition with the capitalist world and especially with the United States "we shall win without fail," he told what passes for a parliament in Russia.

To be sure, there have been "certain difficulties" and the rate of economic growth has faltered in the last two years, but there's nothing to worry about. Khrushchev reports big production gains even in agriculture, but as usual fails to reveal percentages.

As for those 12 million tons of grain

bought abroad, Russia could have done without them.

At this point the chairman shed tears over the plight of American farmers who are being "forced into bankruptcy and are leaving their farms to swell the army of unemployed."

But America's farm problem, created by the fact that efficient farmers under the incentives of private enterprise are producing more food than can be consumed or sold, is the kind of trouble Khrushchev would dearly like to have.

What it all means is that the Soviet Union's principal salesman has to pretend he still believes in his product, even if it isn't selling very well.

Uneasiest Head

Despite the cool reception he received in the Scandinavian countries, Soviet Premier Khrushchev showed a cockiness that belied any worry on his part about his control of the home front. He entertained Norwegian political leaders in Oslo with a rollicking characterization of the foes he overcame in clawing his way to the top of the Moscow heap.

Of Bulganin, who preceded him as premier, Khrushchev said he was "a bookkeeper who couldn't add the figures of power politics," and that mental wastes had clogged Bulganin's mental channels in 1957 causing him to join an anti-Khrushchev cabal.

Former Premier Georgi Malekov was described as "a good writer" but one who had to be told what to write, and a soft man who couldn't make a decision. Khrushchev added this doesn't hamper Malekov because he now heads a power plant that is so automatic it runs itself.

Molotov and Kagaovich, who also conspired against him, have been "taken care of," Khrushchev said.

The question that inspired this banter was one about who would replace him. Obviously he doesn't think anybody can. He can joke about it, but in a tyranny like Russia's heads lie uneasy — the topmost the uneasiest of all.

A TELEVISION star told his regular barber he wanted a particularly good haircut one morning. "I'm flying to England tomorrow and I'm going to be introduced to the Queen!" The barber was unimpressed. "In the first place," he commented, "English weather is terrible at this time of the year. In the second place, flying across the Atlantic is no bargain with these winter storms raging. In the third place, you won't like the food over there. And in the fourth place, you won't really meet the Queen. There will be about five hundred people at the same time and she won't even know you're there!"

The television star made the trip, nevertheless, and in due course was back in the same barber's chair. "In the first place," he reported, "the weather in England was superb. In the second place, the plane rides both to and from were so smooth I never felt a tremor. In the third place, I loved the food so much I gained fifteen pounds. And in the fourth place, there were only two other visitors at Buckingham Palace when I met the Queen. And do you know what she asked me? She asked me, 'Who on earth gave you that horrible haircut?'"

A most successful off-Broadway revue is presented by the Second City troupe. One of their skits features a fussy restaurant patron who orders a plate of alphabet soup—with the O's left out. "I can't eat O's," he explains. "They don't agree with me."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

If it isn't hay and doesn't cause fever, what is "hay fever"?

Hay fever is a group of symptoms really distinguished by bouts of sneezing, congestion and "running" of the nose, itching of the eyes and tickling of the throat.

Wind-borne pollens are generally responsible for this distressing "nuisance illness." Pollenization from the birch, maple and oak trees are some of the springtime offenders.

Goldenrod and pollens of the ragweed family cause the "August misery in sensitive or allergic patients."

When the exact offending plant, tree, flower or weed is known, exposure to them must be avoided if relief is to be obtained.

Unfortunately, this is not always possible. People cannot plan their holidays around the "estimated time of arrival" of the August pollen season.

Many, but not all, of the chemical secrets of the cause and control of allergy are known. The elusive ones are being actively sought. Until they are discovered, the uncomfortable hay fever victim has a few choices for finding temporary relief.

One method — probably the least effective — is to desensitize the patient during the actual pollen season.

A better method is the pre-seasonal desensitization of the patient about six weeks prior to the expected onset of symptoms. This affords relief in about 75 per cent of patients.

A third method is the perennial, year-round building up of a type of "immunity" to the offending substance.

Antihistamine drugs are often exceedingly efficacious in many instances.

It must be emphasized and remembered that some antihistamine (anti-allergy) pills often produce the unwanted side effect of drowsiness.

Automobile drivers especially must be warned that the reflexes are not as fast with the sleepy side effects of these drugs.

The particular choice of treatment, the advantage of skin-testing, the use of cortisone and other drugs must be left to the discretion of the physician who knows your singular problem best.

Is the "one-shot" treatment for hay fever and allergies definitely successful?

The one injection anti-allergy technique is being used enthusiastically by reliable investigators in many parts of the country. Some doctors are more enthusiastic about it than others.

It always takes a few years for the over-enthusiastic and the under-enthusiastic to balance out the advantages of a new method of treatment. There is sufficient reason to believe that the one-shot method may, before long, solve many of the resistant problems of allergy.

Is hay fever catching? It definitely is not. Hay fever victims can, however, transmit the bacteria that normally lie in their noses, through violent bouts of sneezing. Don't block sneeze — just cover your nose.

NEW YORK (AP)—Central air conditioning for pigs is the latest gleam in the eye of the environmental control engineer. He says it will give you better porkchops.

He adds that it will cut the farmer's feed bills by letting the pigs get heavier faster without making hogs of themselves.

This type of engineer also says that a dairyman who plays it cool will get a lot more milk in hot weather.

A pre-chilled nest can fool a hen into laying more eggs. What's more they'll be bigger eggs with stronger shells. Since small eggs and thin shells affect the hatching and survival of young chicks, the poultry raiser could pare a bit off his dollar losses in the usual summer slump in egg production.

Young calves also slow down in gaining weight when the temperature goes to 80 degrees or higher. It's been doing that with great regularity in many places most of this summer.

All of this selling pitch, the engineer thinks, will woo many an animal raiser within the next five years and make barns and chicken houses year-around comfortable havens at steadily lowering costs.

Pig raisers are already heeding them, according to the environmental control engineers at General Electric. And this has led to some figures on how a pig reacts to heat and to controlled temperatures.

At temperatures of 60 and 70 degrees, a well-adjusted pig will gain more than 1½ pounds a day on 3½ pounds of feed. At around 90 degrees the same animal for some reason wants to eat more than 6 pounds, and gains about 1 pound in weight.

The engineer reasons that the cooler pig will produce top grade bacon, ham and pork products at lower feed cost, and therefore offer lower prices to the consumer.

Also the hot months adversely affect the fertility rate of swine, the size of their litters, and even the quality of the pork chop.

Pigs can be a problem other ways, too. The mortality rates of the young are among the highest among domestic animals. At the Borden Co. they say they have a system to counteract that.

Pigs are taken from the mother just before normal birth time while they're still disease free, and put in isolation units and brooders until four weeks old. That, of course, calls for a special feed formula. And the scientists there claim it all but eliminates the mortality rate that can run as high as 40 per cent in an unimpacted litter. The special formula has nutritional value similar to sow's milk and is used by some farmers to replace cow's milk formulas they've used to ward off pig diseases.

And makers of feed supplements are just as sure as the environment control engineers that they can raise milk output, put more weight on beef cattle, fatten chicken drumsticks and get more eggs out of a hen. They, too, have statistics they like to quote.

The consumer? Well, he has promises of better food, and can hope for lower prices, as such human niceties as air conditioning and fortified foods are extended further among the animal population.

Built on Mobility

By John Chamberlain

LOS ANGELES, Calif. —When Goldwater, in his acceptance speech at San Francisco, said that in his ideal America "all who can, will be self-reliant," he risked a revival of the charges of hard-heartedness that were flung at him after his talk to the Economics Club of New York. Nevertheless, there is a good argument that government intervention of the type that is being contemplated in anti-poverty legislation only serves to "institutionalize" a chronic state of unemployment.

The argument can't be proved statistically, for it involves a comparison of two kinds of future, neither of which has yet happened. But let's take a western ghost town, for example, and see where we go from there. When a silver mine is worked out, the people who made their livings from it could be subsidized under some form of "area redevelopment" to remain on the premises. It would seem that this would constitute a frontal attack on poverty. But Oscar W. Cooley, an economist who has written a book "Paying Men Not to Work," which will be published some time next month by the Caxton Printers of Caldwell, Idaho, insists that the act of subsidizing a ghost town — or any laggard region — must be paid for by capital that could be used more productively elsewhere.

Since Mr. Cooley's argument is theoretical, it does not commend itself to legislators in Washington, D.C., who depend on their constituents staying put in the old home town. Congressman Whalley of Western Pennsylvania, for example might want to see his supporters re-employed where they can continue voting for him. It's only human to think of people in terms of the homes they already own, the employment they have always had, and the associations they have developed over the years.

America, however, was built on mobility. Coming back to California after a long absence, one is forcibly reminded of it with every new vista. Those acres of artichokes at Castroville at the end of the Salinas valley weren't there when I lived here last. Culver City has long since given way to Hollywood as the movie capital. The orange and walnut groves that I knew as a boy are real estate developments interconnected by the terrifying freeways which feed workers into urban businesses. The electronics and airplane manufacturers are a new breed.

Mr. Cooley's theoretical argument that mobility will take care of things if men are not over-subsidized to stay put becomes clothed with reality if one looks at the new offshore oil and gas industry in southern California.

Old abalone divers are now working with Jon Lindbergh, son of pioneer flyer Charles Lindbergh, in the exciting business of capping offshore oil and gas wells some four hundred feet under the sea. Gas is piped in from several miles out in the ocean to fuel whole communities.

It was only a month or so ago that I was tramping around some worked-out bituminous strip mines in Western Pennsylvania. Stripping coal with the new machinery has put many out of work. But Pennsylvania's loss has been the offshore oil industry's gain. And the people who continue to pour into California are evidence that mobility is constantly at work to make forced "area redevelopment" a momentary thing.

The book written by Mr. Cooley — and significantly delivered to a western publisher — is an eloquent plea to let capital go to where it can create optimum production. If it is tied up in an effort to drive the spooks out of ghost towns, it will not be available to provide the cables needed to pipe the Dodge games into millions of California homes by closed-circuit TV.

Watermelon juice can be converted into vinegar, according to a science writer. Maybe so — but wouldn't that be downright sabotage?

Water Desalting Gains

Water desalination is not as dramatic, nor as successful, a scientific pursuit as the Apollo or Mercury space programs, explaining perhaps why little is heard of man's centuries - old dream of converting sea water to a palatable state.

There have been no startling breakthroughs in salt water conversion methods to help bring fresh water to both arid and landlocked regions. Progress which has been made has come hard, but it is now clear conversion at an economical cost will be achieved, probably within the next decade.

In the past 15 years 14 plants have been built throughout the world with a capacity for producing fresh water at a million gallons a day. Three are in the United States. Some of the plants, like those at Kuwait, on the Persian Gulf, and at Elath, Israel, are economically feasible because of the high cost of water in those arid lands.

None of the three U. S. plants are operating near the cost of fresh water already available. The plant in Freeport Texas, built by the Department of Interior's Office of Saline Water, produces fresh water at a cost of $1.17 per thousand gallons. In contrast, water from the Colorado River which supplies the Los Angeles area costs about six cents per thousand gallons.

But 10 years ago the average cost of desalination was approximately $4 per thousand gallons. This is why scientists working on small experimental conversion plants in several parts of the United States are confident that by 1975 they will be producing economical fresh water from the sea.

What this will mean to the world is thrilling to contemplate. More than one-half the land mass is either arid or semi-arid, yet even now this area is occupied by 150 million persons. Provide even a part of this huge region with all the water it can use and the pressure will be off population expansions for another century.

In the United States, it will mean the large desert area of the Southwest and the dry inland areas of the Northern Plains may someday be as fertile as the land adjacent to the Mississippi.

Hokum Peddler

Premier Khrushchev has made his annual speech about how wonderful everything is in the Soviet Union. He is still burying us.

In its competition with the capitalist world and especially with the United States "we shall win without fail," he told what passes for a parliament in Russia.

To be sure, there have been "certain difficulties" and the rate of economic growth has faltered in the last two years, but there's nothing to worry about. Khrushchev reports big production gains even in agriculture, but as usual fails to reveal percentages.

As for those 12 million tons of grain

bought abroad, Russia could have done without them.

At this point the chairman shed tears over the plight of American farmers who are being "forced into bankruptcy and are leaving their farms to swell the army of unemployed."

But America's farm problem, created by the fact that efficient farmers under the incentives of private enterprise are producing more food than can be consumed or sold, is the kind of trouble Khrushchev would dearly like to have.

What it all means is that the Soviet Union's principal salesman has to pretend he still believes in his product, even if it isn't selling very well.

Uneasiest Head

Despite the cool reception he received in the Scandinavian countries, Soviet Premier Khrushchev showed a cockiness that belied any worry on his part about his control of the home front. He entertained Norwegian political leaders in Oslo with a rollicking characterization of the foes he overcame in clawing his way to the top of the Moscow heap.

Of Bulganin, who preceded him as premier, Khrushchev said he was "a bookkeeper who couldn't add the figures of power politics," and that mental wastes had clogged Bulganin's mental channels in 1957 causing him to join an anti-Khrushchev cabal.

Former Premier Georgi Malekov was described as "a good writer" but one who had to be told what to write, and a soft man who couldn't make a decision. Khrushchev added this doesn't hamper Malenkov because he now heads a power plant that is so automatic it runs itself.

Molotov and Kagaovich, who also conspired against him, have been "taken care of," Khrushchev said.

The question that inspired this banter was one about who would replace him. Obviously he doesn't think anybody can. He can joke about it, but in a tyranny like Russia's heads lie uneasy — the topmost of the uneasiest of all.

He mentions the new chemical industries based on huge rock salt deposits in the upper Ohio River valley. He mentions the Western Electric Company's decision to locate a plant in Lawrence, Massachusetts, to make use of the finger dexterity of people who once worked in textile mills.

The illusion that Washington, D.C., must take care of everybody vanishes as one reads of example after example of this sort of thing.

Profit Reports Reflect Upturn

NEW YORK (AP) — The strength of the current business upturn is being underscored by a stream of glowing corporate profits reports.

The second quarter was a period of record earnings for many corporations.

This was particularly true in the booming automobile industry, where General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. came out with highest-ever profits for the three months and six months ended June 30.

A Wall Street stock market analyst commented: "I've never seen such a big batch of improved earnings statements."

Some of the credit for the gains was attributed to the federal income tax cut which became effective in February. It enabled companies to retain a greater amount of their profits and increased the money available to consumers for spending.

General Motors earned $602 million, equal to $2.11 a share, in the second quarter, against $464 million, or $1.62 a share, a year earlier.

Ford reported second-quarter earnings of $179.9 million, up 15 per cent from the previous record of $155.9 million in the second and quarter of 1963.

Chrysler earned $60.6 million in the three months ended June 30, compared with $41.7 million a year earlier.

This reflected Ford's sales of 738,720 vehicles in the second quarter, up 13 per cent from the 1963 second quarter, and Chrysler's sales of 903,643, up from 738,292, in the first half.

Adding to the rosy glow were improved reports from such companies as Motorola, B.F. Goodrich, Celanese, Du Pont, Reynolds Metals, Kaiser Steel, American Airlines and United Air Lines.

Although the government reported that cigarette consumption fell in May after rising in April, American Tobacco Co., and R.J. Reynolds Co. reported record profits for the second quarter.

With steel production holding up better than usual in the normally quiet summer season, Republic Steel, Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown Sheet & Tube—three of the nation's eight major steel producers—announced increases in first-half earnings from a year earlier.

Few States Acting on Reapportionment

NEW YORK (AP)—Don't expect the Supreme Court's legislative apportionment ruling to produce many changes before next year.

Only a few states appear ready to elect state legislators this fall under new apportionment systems. Most states are pointing toward 1965 as the year for doing something.

The court's historic ruling June 15 held that seats in both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis and not along geographic lines.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press shows Colorado and Michigan are the only states that appear certain now of selecting legislators next November under revised population apportionment plans.

It meant politically explosive overhauls of most legislatures.

The court set no time limit for carrying out the order and it gave lower courts freedom to deal with "remedial devices."

The Colorado legislature completed work July 6 on a reapportionment bill and a three-judge federal panel approved it as being within the Supreme Court guidelines.

Michigan voters approved last year a new state constitution with a revised apportionment formula.

The situation in New York is similar to that in a number of states. A special three-judge federal court will hear arguments later this month on whether reapportionment must be carried out in time for the November election.

Kentucky reapportioned its legislature before the Supreme Court ruling, with population one of the major factors. The plan is regarded in the state as being one of the best in the nation and has not been appealed to the Supreme Court so far.

In Massachusetts, an apportionment plan based on voter registration was adopted in 1962 and will take effect with the legislature elected in November.

State officials say this roughly produces the same result as apportionment based on population.

Oregon already had reapportioned its legislature on a population basis. The plan was approved in the 1952 general election. The state is not planning further action.

Vermont is one of the few states where the courts have drawn up specific timetables.

A federal court ruled apportionment must be carried out by April and the present general assembly can conduct no business until this is completed. A new legislature is expected to be elected in the spring.

Profit Reports Reflect Upturn

NEW YORK (AP) — The strength of the current business upturn is being underscored by a stream of glowing corporate profits reports.

The second quarter was a period of record earnings for many corporations.

This was particularly true in the booming automobile industry, where General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. came out with highest-ever profits for the three months and six months ended June 30.

A Wall Street stock market analyst commented: "I've never seen such a big batch of improved earnings statements."

Some of the credit for the gains was attributed to the federal income tax cut which became effective in February. It enabled companies to retain a greater amount of their profits and increased the money available to consumers for spending.

General Motors earned $602 million, equal to $2.11 a share, in the second quarter, against $464 million, or $1.62 a share, a year earlier.

Ford reported second-quarter earnings of $179.9 million, up 15 per cent from the previous record of $155.9 million in the second quarter of 1963.

Chrysler earned $60.6 million in the three months ended June 30, compared with $41.7 million a year earlier.

This reflected Ford's sales of 738,720 vehicles in the second quarter, up 13 per cent from the 1963 second quarter, and Chrysler's sales of 903,643, up from 738,292, in the first half.

Books Suggest Fun and Games For All Ages

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

When they've been holed up in the house for even one drizzly day, the little natives get restless. Used to running off excess energy outdoors, they don't know what to do with themselves when rained in.

If Mother doesn't have a few suggestions up her sleeve, there's trouble brewing. Happily for all, however, there are any number of new books that suggest ways to avert it.

A revised, expanded and updated edition of "The Complete Book of Children's Play" is more than a rainy-day help. It's an all-weather book for all ages from tots to teens.

Authors Ruth E. Hartley, Ph.D., and Robert M. Golden-son, Ph.D., suggest activities for different age groups, devote coverage to play that develops the mind and include valuable lists of records, books, games and hobby materials.

Of special rainy day interest is this book's list of household items, including paper plates (for painting), potatoes (for puppets) and old clothes (for dress-up). They're items that can be pulled into playtime usage in a bad-weather emergency.

Among other activity books available are a number of excellent ones for small children.

"Let's Imagine Thinking Up Things" by Janet Wolff and Bernard Overt opens the door to countless possibilities.

The authors get a child to use his mind to imagine all the things a circle can be, or a square, a line or a triangle. The book's illustrations supply some of the answers; a child's imagination will come up with many more.

The same technique is used by the same authors in a companion book, "Let's Imagine Colors."

"Finger Plays" by Adelaide Holl is one of a series of very excellent and very inexpensive activity books.

Illustrations by Lilian Obliga-do, including the one reproduced here, suggest how tots can act out activities such as making cookies or mending shoes, or imitate animals by, for example, leaping like a frog or prancing like a horse.

Also diverting in this series are:

"Toys to Make" by Bertha Morris Parker, which includes instructions for eleven, including a puppet, pinwheel and Jack-in-the-box.

"Show and Tell" by D'Ann and Vincent Fago, an activity book of writing, coloring and games.

For older children, a paperback book of "Fun and Games" by Margaret E. Mulac offers chapters with rainy day value, including those on checkerboard, musical and paper-and-pencil games and paper-folding tricks.

"The Golden Book of Magic" by the Great Merlini (Clayton Rawson) is still another book that should keep youngsters engrossed for hours with match magic, string sorcery, handkerchief tricks and conjuring with cards.

It's filled with colorful illustrations and how-to diagrams by William Dugan.

This is just a sampling of the books available that have the power to brighten a rainy day with fun, games and a variety of activities.

Stock up on several while the sun's shining but hoard them away so they'll have novelty appeal on a dreary day when the kids are shut in by showers and are showing all the ornerly symptoms of Sheer Boredom.

SUGGESTIONS FOR TOTS — An inexpensive book of "Finger Plays" illustrates how kids can make like a bunny rabbit or even a windmill.

DEAR ABBY: I have always considered you the voice of anti-intellectual mid-Victorian marality. As such, you had your finest moment when you advised a 14-year-old boy to run rather than to defend himself against a 15-year-old outsized girl. I say if a girl wants to act like a boy, treat her as a boy. A black eye and a split lip in childhood is a small price to pay if it prevents a female from confusing her role with that of a male's in adult life.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE L.H.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to MRS. M. burned me up. That's the trouble with society today. You women want to wear the pants, smoke, go in bars and compete with men for jobs, but when the going gets rough you expect special treatment just because you're women. I say that kid who slugged the girl deserves a pat on the back. I'll bet that was the last time that big fat Amazon ever took a poke at him. Sign me . . .

SWEENEY

DEAR ABBY: Just read about the 14-year-old boy who was given a beating by his father for socking a 15-year-old girl in the eye. When I was an 8-year-old boy, I was unmercifully tormented by an older, bigger girl. I was ashamed to ask for help because people would laugh at a boy who would let a girl scare him. If only I had had the nerve to pick up a good-sized stick and let her have some good whacks on the

You said, "Under no circumstances should a boy ever hit a girl." I think you gave some pretty bum advice there, Abby. If a girl hits a boy first, I think he has a perfect right to hit her back. You have a son, Abby, why don't you ask HIM for HIS opinion? I'll bet HE wouldn't run from a girl.

ONE FOR WASTEBASKET

DEAR ONE: I just asked him. He said he wouldn't HIT her in the same way he'd hit a boy. But he'd give her a "padding" she'd never forget. You win!

Dear Abby: A Man's Viewpoint!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our sewing club discussed that letter in your column from the mother of a 14-year-old boy who beat up a 15-year-old girl because she kicked him, hit him and called him names. The boy's father heard about it and gave the boy a good thrashing. You were asked what the boy should have done in such a case and you said that since the girl outweighed him by 30 pounds, and was half a head taller than he was, the boy should have run. In our entire group, Abby, I was the only one who stood by you. All the other women said they thought the boy had no choice but to beat the girl up in order to defend himself. Maybe you and I were not raised the same as most folks, but I still think it is less of a disgrace for a boy to run from a girl than to beat her up.

Boy Survives In Wilderness

8 Foodless Days Brings No Scare

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—"I was worried some of the time, but I was never scared," said a 10-year-old city boy who survived eight days without food in a rugged wilderness area of Yosemite National Park.

"I thought someone would find me. I knew they were looking for me when I saw a helicopter fly overhead."

Once-chubby John Ireland Jr. of Los Angeles lived on water and his own body fat as he wandered in the mountainous terrain where nighttime temperatures ranged in the high 30s.

He lost 15 pounds during the ordeal — his weight dropped from 103 to 86—but doctors said his condition was good.

"It's amazing," said one doctor. "He had nothing but water. The boy is talking, and you'd hardly know he had taken a hike."

Young John wandered away from his family's trailer at Harden Lake campsite July 18 wearing only a thin T-shirt, jeans and leather shoes.

Rangers Gil Hall and Jim Reilly found him Saturday afternoon about three miles from the camp. About 350 men had joined in an air and ground search.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ireland, had lost hope and were getting ready to break camp and return home when they learned that John had been found.

"I'm hungry," were his first words to his parents. The boy had lost so much weight that he had to hold his pants up."

John told of his adventure from a bed in Lewis Memorial Hospital in Yosemite.

"As soon as I knew I was lost, I sat down and started making plans for getting home," he said. "I was worried some of the time, but I was never scared."

"The worst part of it was the cold at night and the mosquitoes."

Books Suggest
Fun and Games
For All Ages

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

When they've been holed up in the house for even one drizzly day, the little natives get restless. Used to running off excess energy outdoors, they don't know what to do with themselves when rained in.

If Mother doesn't have a few suggestions up her sleeve, there's trouble brewing. Happily for all, however, there are any number of new books that suggest ways to avert it.

A revised, expanded and updated edition of "The Complete Book of Children's Play" is more than a rainy-day help. It's an all-weather book for all ages from tots to teens.

Authors Ruth E. Hartley, Ph.D., and Robert M. Golden-son, Ph.D., suggest activities for different age groups, devote coverage to play that develops the mind and include valuable lists of records, books, games and hobby materials.

Of special rainy day interest is this book's list of household items, including paper plates (for painting), potatoes (for puppets) and old clothes (for dress-up). They're items that can be pulled into playtime usage in a bad-weather emergency.

Among other activity books available are a number of excellent ones for small children. "Let's Imagine Thinking Up Things" by Janet Wolff and Bernard Owell opens the door to countless possibilities.

The authors get a child to use his mind to imagine all the things a circle can be, or a square, a line or a triangle. The book's illustrations supply some of the answers; a child's imagination will come up with many more.

The same technique is used by the same authors in a companion book, "Let's Imagine Colors."

"Finger Plays" by Adelaide Holl is one of a series of very excellent and very inexpensive activity books.

Illustrations by Lilian Obliga-do, including the one reproduced here, suggest how tots can act out activities such as making cookies or mending shoes, or imitate animals by, for example, leaping like a frog or prancing like a horse.

Also diverting in this series are:

"Toys to Make" by Bertha Morris Parker, which includes instructions for eleven, including a puppet, pinwheel and Jack-in-the-box.

"Show and Tell" by D'Ann and Vincent Fago, an activity book of writing, coloring and games.

For older children, a paper-back book of "Fun and Games" by Margaret E. Mulac offers chapters with rainy day value,

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A Man's Viewpoint!

DEAR ABBY: I have always considered you the voice of anti-intellectual mid-Victorian morality. As such, you had your finest moment when you advised a 14-year-old boy to run rather than to defend himself against a 15-year-old outsized girl. I say if a girl wants to act like a boy, treat her as a boy. A black eye and a split lip in childhood is a small price to pay if it prevents a female from confusing her role with that of a male's in adult life.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE L.H.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to MRS. M. burned me up. That's the trouble with society today. You women want to wear the pants, smoke, go in bars and compete with men for jobs, but when the going gets rough you expect special treatment just because you're women. I say that kid who slugged the girl deserves a pat on the back. I'll bet that was the last time that big fat Amazon ever took a poke at him. Sign me . . .

SWEENEY

DEAR ABBY: Just read about the 14-year-old boy who was given a beating by his father for soaking a 15-year-old girl in the eye. When I was an 8-year-old boy, I was unmercifully tormented by an older, bigger girl. I was ashamed to ask for help because people would laugh at a boy who would let a girl scare him. If only I had had the nerve to pick up a good-sized stick and let her have some good whacks on the including those on checkerboard, musical and paper-and-pencil games and paper-folding tricks.

"The Golden Book of Magic" by the Great Merlini (Clayton Rawson) is still another book that should keep youngsters engrossed for hours with match magic, string sorcery, handkerchief tricks and conjuring with cards.

It's filled with colorful illustrations and how-to diagrams by William Dugan.

This is just a sampling of the books available that have the power to brighten a rainy day with fun, games and a variety of activities.

Stock up on several while the sun's shining but hoard them away so they'll have novelty appeal on a dreary day when the kids are shut in by showers and are showing all the ornerly symptoms of Sheer Boredom.

Cleveland Named Head Of Legion

CINCINNATI (AP) — Vernon B. Allen of Cleveland has moved up from first vice commander to state commander of the Ohio American Legion.

Alec J. Blair of Jackson was named national executive committeeman to the National American Legion.

Greenbaum was chosen alternate national committeeman.

Mrs. Leo McElroy of West Jefferson was elected state president of the Legion Auxiliary, succeeding Mrs. William Gill of Minerva.

Boy Survives In Wilderness

8 Foodless Days Brings No Scare

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—"I was worried some of the time, but I was never scared," said a 10-year-old city boy who survived eight days without food in a rugged wilderness area of Yosemite National Park.

"I thought someone would find me. I knew they were looking for me when I saw a helicopter fly overhead."

Once-chubby John Ireland Jr. of Los Angeles lived on water and his own body fat as he wandered in the mountainous terrain where nighttime temperatures ranged in the high 30s.

He lost 15 pounds during the ordeal — his weight dropped from 103 to 86—but doctors said his condition was good.

"It's amazing," said one doctor. "He had nothing but water. The boy is talking, and you'd hardly know he had taken a hike."

Young John wandered away from his family's trailer at Harder Lake campsite July 18 wearing only a thin T-shirt, jeans and leather shoes.

Rangers Gil Hall and Jim Reilly found him Saturday afternoon about three miles from the camp. About 350 men had joined in an air and ground search.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ireland, had lost hope and were getting ready to break camp and return home when they learned that John had been found.

"I'm hungry," were his first words to his parents. The boy had lost so much weight that he had to hold his pants up."

John told of his adventure from a bed in Lewis Memorial Hospital in Yosemite.

"As soon as I knew I was lost, I sat down and started making plans for getting home," he said. "I was worried some of the time, but I was never scared."

"The worst part of it was the cold at night and the mosquitoes."

Frankfurters need simmering, rather than boiling, in the home kitchen because they are fully cooked sausage.

Cincinnati Reduces Roster to Limit

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds asked waivers Sunday on infielder Bobby Klaus. The club had to get down to the 25-player limit as two others were brought up from San Diego.

Catcher Hal Smith was given his unconditional release Saturday so the Reds could make room for third baseman Chico Ruiz and first baseman Tony Perez.

Former Boxer Makes Big Hit In New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rico Carty, a former boxer, has made a big hit in New York. Seven hits, in fact. Five with his bat and two with his right.

Carty, a 24-year-old rookie, was all over the place, especially right in the middle of a two-punch fight, as Milwaukee swept the Mets 11-7 and 15-10 Sunday.

Continuing his torrid streak, Carty collected a pair of two-run homers, a double and two singles, driving in eight runs in the two games and increasing his batting average to .342, only one point behind Roberto Clement's major league-leading .343.

Before he became a professional baseball player, Carty was an amateur fighter in the Dominican Republic. He couldn't understand why he had to train so many weeks for one bout, but he did it anyway. He did it so well, in fact, that he won his first 17 fights.

His career, however, came to an abrupt end.

"One time I lost, and I don't like to lose," he explained. Carty didn't lose Sunday when he briefly rediscovered his fondness for fistfights. His New York debut—a few miles from Madison Square Garden—came a few minutes after the nightcap started.

Milwaukee's Denis Menke led off the game with a homer against Frank Lary. Lee Maye, the next batter, was hit with a pitch. When he got up, he started toward the mound but was intercepted by Mets' catcher Chris Cannizzaro, a would-be peacemaker.

Both dugouts emptied, Carty leading with his fleet feet and his right. His first swing caught Cannizzaro, and he followed with one to the jaw of first baseman Frank Thomas. There were no knockdowns.

The partisan crowd of 13,782 booed the decision — Carty wasn't ejected.

But the reception didn't bother the versatile slugger. One out later, he slammed his 12th home run into the left field stands. In other NL games, St. Louis stopped Philadelphia 6-1 and 4-1, San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 5-2, Pittsburgh whipped Cincinnati 5-1 after losing 7-2 and Chicago blanked Houston 3-0.

In the American League, New York swept Detroit 11-6 and 5-4, Washington beat Baltimore 4-1, Chicago took Minnesota 5-4 in 12 innings and 3-0, Los Angeles trimmed Kansas City 3-0 and 4-3 in 10 innings and Boston knocked off Cleveland 6-1 and 3-1.

Legion in Split With Sabina Nine

The three-hit pitching of George Reeser gave the Circleville Hall - Adkins American Legion Post a 4-3 win and a split in a doubleheader with Sabina. The visitors took the second game by a 7-6 count.

The locals broke the ice in the first game by scoring a run in the second inning on three hits. Sabina came back to knot the score in the fourth inning with an unearned run.

Circleville tallied a score in the fifth and Sabina managed single markers on the sixth and seventh frames. With the locals down by one run in the final inning, Mansil Hurlbut led off with a double and scored on Arnie Gabriel's triple. Gabriel scored the winning tally as Chet lary laid down a sacrifice bunt.

Reeser mastered Sabina in the first game, firing a three-hitter and giving up one earned run. He threw three strikes past 17 opposing hitters, getting each player at least once. The three hits were all scratch singles.

GABRIEL paced the hitting in the first game, clubbing a triple and a single. Jeff Lutz, Jeff Ankrom and Hurlbut smashed doubles for the winners.

In the second game, Circleville scored three runs in the first inning and three in the final frame on 10 hits. Sabina carded two runs in the third inning, one in the sixth and four in the final canto to win.

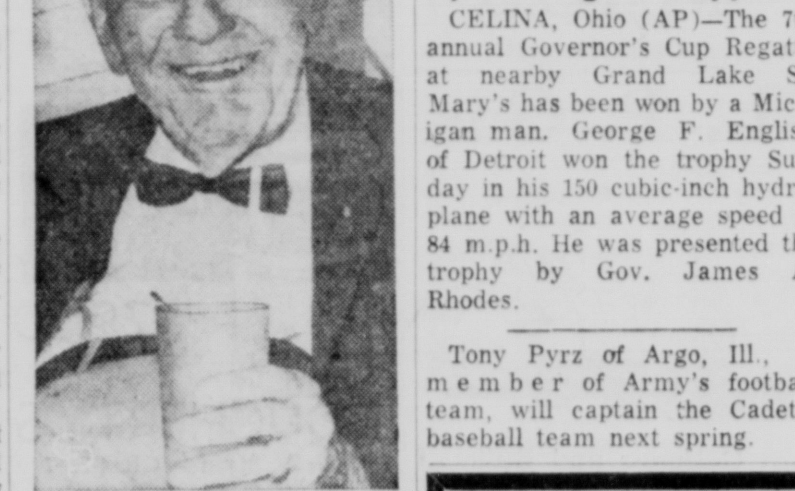

Sabina, playing with only eight players in both tilts, decided to use Pidgeon as the hurler in the second game. He had just pitched seven innings two days prior to his game winning effort yesterday.

He allowed six runs on 10 hits, walked two batters and fanned three.

Snow and Ritenhouse paced Sabina at the plate as both hit homers and triples.

Gabriel cracked the first homerun of his career when he led off the first inning. He added a double and scored two runs.

Cincinnati Reduces Roster to Limit

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds asked waivers Sunday on infielder Bobby Klaus.

The club had to get down to the 25-player limit as two others were brought up from San Di-ego.

Catcher Hal Smith was given his unconditional release Satur-day so the Reds could make room for third baseman Chico Ruiz and first baseman Tony Perez.

Former Boxer Makes Big Hit In New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rico Carty, a former boxer, has made a big hit in New York.

Seven hits, in fact. Five with his bat and two with his right.

Carty, a 24-year-old rookie, was all over the place, especially right in the middle of a two-punch fight, as Milwaukee swept the Mets 11-7 and 15-10 Sunday.

Continuing his torrid streak, Carty collected a pair of two-run homers, a double and two singles, driving in eight runs in the two games and increasing his batting average to .342, only one point behind Roberto Clement's major league-leading .343.

Before he became a profes-sional baseball player, Carty was an amateur fighter in the Dominican Republic. He couldn't understand why he had to train so many weeks for one bout, but he did it anyway. He did it so well, in fact, that he won his first 17 fights.

His career, however, came to an abrupt end.

"One time I lost, and I don't like to lose," he explained.

Carty didn't lose Sunday when he briefly rediscovered his fond-ness for fistfuffs. His New York debut—a few miles from Madison Square Garden—came a few minutes after the night-cap started.

Milwaukee's Denis Menke led off the game with a homer against Frank Lary. Lee Maye, the next batter, was hit with a pitch. When he got up, he started toward the mound but was intercepted by Mets' catcher Chris Cannizzaro, a would-be peacemaker.

Both dugouts emptied, Carty leading with his fleet feet and his right. His first swing caught Cannizzaro, and he followed with one to the jaw of first base-man Frank Thomas. There were no knockdowns.

The partisan crowd of 31,782 booed the decision — Carty wasn't ejected.

But the reception didn't bot-ter the versatile slugger. One out later, he slammed his 12th home run into the left field stands.

In other NL games, St. Louis stopped Philadelphia 6-1 and 4-1, San Francisco defeated Los An-gelos 5-2, Pittsburgh whipped Cincinnati 5-1 after losing 7-2 and Chicago blanked Houston 3-0.

In the American League, New York swept Detroit 11-6 and 5-4, Washington beat Baltimore 4-1, Chicago took Minnesota 5-4 in 12 innings and 3-0, Los Angeles trimmed Kansas City 3-0 and 4-3 in 10 innings and Boston knocked off Cleveland 6-1 and 3-1.

Tribe Hopes Alvis To Buoy Lagging '9'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Max Alvis may be what the doctor ordered for the ailing Cleveland Indians.

Alvis, stricken June 25 with spinal meningitis, will be at shortstop tonight for an exhibi-tion game against the Pitts-burgh Pirates. If he doesn't tire easily, Alvis will be back on the roster.

The Indians could have used his power potential Sunday against the Boston Red Sox. Be-fore his attack, Max had come out of a batting slump and raised his average to .251. He was second in RBI with 29.

Boston pitchers allowed the Indians only eight hits while taking both ends of a double-header, 6-1 and 3-1.

Earl Wilson won the opener on a four-hitter and rookie Ed Connolly and reliever Dick Rad-atz matched it in the second game. Wilson, who was knocked out of the box in the first inning the last time he faced the Tribe, struck out 11. Lee Stange (4-10) lost the first game and Pedro Ramos (4-8) was tagged with the second defeat.

The Indians have lost nine of 16 twin-bills.

Legion in Split With Sabina Nine

The three - hit pitching of George Reeser gave the Circleville Hall - Adkins American Legion Post a 4-3 win and a split in a doubleheader with Sabina. The visitors took the second game by a 7-6 count.

The locals broke the ice in the first game by scoring a run in the second inning on three hits. Sabina came back to knot the score in the fourth inning with an unearned run.

Circleville tallied a score in the fifth and Sabina managed single markers on the sixth and seventh frames. With the locals down by one run in the final inning, Mansil Hurlbut led off with a double and scored on Arnie Gabriel's triple. Gabriel scored the winning tally as Chet Iery laid down a sacrifice bunt.

Reeser mastered Sabina in the first game, firing a three hitter and giving up one earned run. He threw three strikes past 17 opposing hitters, getting each player at least once. The three hits were all scratch singles.

GABRIEL paced the hitting in the first game, clubbing a triple and a single. Jeff Lutz, Jeff Ankrom and Hurlbut smashed doubles for the winners.

In the second game, Circleville scored three runs in the first inning and three in the final frame on 10 hits. Sabina carded two runs in the third inning, one in the sixth and four in the final canto to win.

2 Bears Stars Killed in Crash

RENSELAER, Ind. (AP) — The sports world was turned today by an auto crash which killed Chicago Bears' star half-back Willie Galimore and his teammate, John Farrington.

Galimore, a seven-year veter-an who was drafted from Flori-da A&M University in 1956, and Farrington, a 6-foot-3, 217-pound offensive spread end, were killed in the wreckage of Galim-ore's car late Sunday night on a rural road.

Galimore and Farrington had been training with the Bears in preparation for the College All-Star football game Aug. 7. They had attended a players' meeting earlier in the evening.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our daughter Betty Sue Wallace, who passed away two years ago today, July 27, 1962. She would not want the ones she loves to grieve for her today. We must not say that she is dead. For she is just away. Away upon a journey. To a land that's bright and fair. And though we all will miss her here. We know she's happy there. And memories of her will bring New comfort every day. As we recall — she is not dead. For she is just away. Sadness is shared by Father, Mother, sisters, brothers and relatives.

1. Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors, for their kindness, in sending cards and flowers to our mother, during her confinement in Berger Hospital, and at her death. Jay, Cardenas Sparkle as Reds Split

CINCINNATI (AP)—Veteran Joey Jay and Leo Cardenas had their day Sunday.

Jay snapped his six-game losing streak, and Cardenas clouted his first major league grand slam home run in leading Cincinnati to a split in a double-header with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Reds galloped to a 7-2 triumph in the first game as Jay finally got his fifth victory, and then lost the nightcap 5-1 with Pittsburgh scoring all its runs in one inning.

Cincinnati, which completed a 16-game homestand, winning 10 and losing six, moved into Milwaukee today for the first of three games on a seven-game road trip. Jim Maloney was slated to face the Braves' Denny Lemaster tonight.

Despite losing the second game Sunday, the Reds still picked up a full game on the slumping National League leading Philadelphia Phils, whom they now trail by 3½ games, while holding onto their 1½-game advantage over the fourth place Pirates. The Phillies dropped a doubleheader to the resurging St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds scored a run in the first inning when Pete Rose slugged his fourth home run. Cincinnati added two more in the fifth, one coming when Tommy Harper stole home on a double steal with Frank Robinson.

The Pirates bunched four of their seven hits in the second game for an explosive five-run fourth inning. Jerry Lynch lined a bases-loaded single for two runs, and Willie Stargell then drove his 15th homer into the right field bleachers.

5 Records Set as U.S. Thinclads Trim Russians

LOS ANGELES (AP)—With two World records headed for the books, along with three American marks, the United States celebrated its most decisive victory and the Russians flew home for extra-intensive training for the Olympics Games.

Such was the wind-up of the sixth dual meet between the USA and USSR, whose track and field aggregations are regarded as the most powerful in the world.

A crowd of 55,924 turned out for the final show Sunday in Memorial Coliseum — 50,519 watched Saturday—bringing the two-day total to 106,643.

The final scores: in men's events, the United States 139, Russia 97; in women's events, Russia 59, the United States 48; and over-all, the United States 187, Russia 156. It was the first time the United States won over-all.

The Russians on arrival from Moscow said their team was two months behind the Americans, because of the seasons, and with two months to go before the Tokyo Games, it could appear the Soviets will have a busy time in the immediate weeks ahead.

There were highlights for all and the crowd kept up a noisy rumble of approval each afternoon.

The big roar Sunday went to 27-year-old Jim Grelle for his victory in the 1,500-meter run, and Bob Shula and 30-year-old Bill Dellinger ran off with the 5,000 meters.

The day before the ovations went to 18-year-old Gerry Lindgren after his amazing triumph in the gruelling 10,000, and the two world record smashers, Fred Hansen, 17-4 in the pole vault, and Dallas Long, 67-10 in the shot put.

The main attraction Sunday was Russia's record holding high jumper, Valery Brumel. But Brumel managed 7-3½ and missed at 7-6 in an attempt to better his mark of 7-5.

The American records were set by Ira Davis in the triple jump at 53-11, by Leah Ferris of Honolulu in the 800 meters in 2:08.8, and Willye White of Chicago in the broad jump, 21-6. Miss White placed second at 21-7 but it was wind aided and would not hold up as a national record.

There were several outstanding firsts for the Americans in this meet:

First victories in the 10,000 meters, Lindgren in 29:17.6; in the triple jump, Davis' 53-11; the 5,000, Schul's 13:50.2; the 3,000-meter steeplechase, by George Young, in 8:42.1.

It was also the finest showing by the women's team since the meet began in 1958.

There were disappointments for the Americans, too. Dyrrol Burleson was unable to run in the 1,500 because of a severe virus attack Sunday morning.

Then Ralph Boston lost in the broad jump. Hal Connolly in the hammer-throw and Randy Matson's third place in the shot put.

Wildlife Aide Receives Some Odd Requests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Yvonne Wells, radio-telephone operator at the state Wildlife Division's Akron office, gets some peculiar calls from fishermen and such.

She jotted down some of the more interesting queries early this month. They included:

"Where can I take a fish to have its eggs hatched?"

"Are the grasshoppers poisonous in Florida?"

"How do you catch a black panther cat?"

Miss Wells tossed the entire set into the lap of supervisor

Set Millar.

The state has stocked 15,181 northern pike fingerlings, four to seven inches long in Lakes Schoonover, St. Marys, Little Oxbow, Oxbow, Harrison Guilford, Aquilla and Findley; Reservoirs Norwalk No. 1, Leipsic, Atwood and Nimisila; ponds Hageman and Kildeer, and the Ohio Canal.

The commercial fish catch in the Ohio waters of Lake Erie was down 827,600 pounds between March 1 and April 30, as compared with the March 15-April 30 period of 1963. This year 3,666,075 pounds were netted, as compared with 4,493,675 pounds last season.

The 1964 deer-hunting season isn't expected to be much better than last year's when slightly more than 2,000 of the animals were taken, the Wildlife Division said today.

The forecast is based on the accidental loss, mostly on highways, for the first half of the year. Through June 30 of this year the loss was 262, as compared to 269 for the same period in 1963.

Frank Brown, manager of the Wolf Creek Wildlife area in Morgan County, recently noted a red pick-up truck, with Florida license and a flat tire, stalled on State Route 78, near the area.

The truck was loaded with doors, and Brown thought he recognized them.

He checked a house on the wildlife area, and found nine doors, hinges and all were missing. He called the sheriff, who arrested Leslie McKee who gave his address as Route 3, Glouster.

Judge Ralph Dye, Jr., of McClellenville fined McKee $75, including costs, and Brown returned the doors to the wildlife area residence.

Ken Venturi had the best final three rounds in this year's U.S. Open. They were 70-66-70 after an opening round 72. Next best over the last three rounds were Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer, each with 210. Jacobs began with a 72 but Brewer's opening round was 76.

Bessie Link, Carmichael, Paul Bondeson, 25, and Jimmy Grant, a 22-year-old amateur from the home club—Wethersfield—had to settle for a four-way tie for runner-up, one stroke off the winning total.

Pitching coach Harry Brecheen of the Baltimore Orioles lost all seven decisions in two hitches with Galveston of the Texas League in 1935-36. In 1937 he won 21 games for Portsmouth, Va.

Ken Venturi had the best final three rounds in this year's U.S. Open. They were 70-66-70 after an opening round 72. Next best over the last three rounds were Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer, each with 210. Jacobs began with a 72 but Brewer's opening round was 76.

Besselink, Carmichael, Paul Bondeson, 25, and Jimmy Grant, a 22-year-old amateur from the home club—Wethersfield—had to settle for a four-way tie for runner-up, one stroke off the winning total.

Pitching coach Harry Brecheen of the Baltimore Orioles lost all seven decisions in two hitches with Galveston of the Texas League in 1935-36. In 1937 he won 21 games for Portsmouth, Va.

Negro Parley Is Refused

Cleveland Mayor Sees No Necessity

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Ralph S. Locher has declined to meet with representatives of the Cleveland chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality to discuss alleged police brutality here.

CORE asked last week for the meeting and outlined a nine-point program which, it contended, would end police brutality. The group wanted to meet with the mayor before Thursday when City Council is to consider his recent proposal to hire 50 policemen.

"The pattern of brutality exists here, and the Negroes are still the particular victims," CORE's letter to the mayor stated. "The temperature in Cleveland ghettos is rising steadily."

In a letter to CORE, the mayor replied:

"I feel the meeting you desire is unnecessary and know of no useful purpose such a meeting would serve the subjects you listed have either been answered or are in the process of investigation."

Antoine Perot, chairman of CORE's action committee, said the mayor's refusal to meet with the group could turn Cleveland into another Harlem. He said CORE has had numerous complaints of police brutality and has cases on file with the names or badge numbers of the policemen accused.

Among the nine points in CORE's program were:

—Immediate action against any policeman accused of brutality and their suspension until investigations are completed.

—Changing city laws to make the city fully responsible for actions of policemen.

—Establishing a citizens' advisory board to investigate charges of police brutality.

—Improving selection standards and procedures for police applicants.

—Setting up a police program in human relations, civil rights and constitutional guarantees to be conducted by non-police experts.

—Increasing police salaries and benefits after CORE's recommendations have been adopted.

Johnson Aide Calls States' Rights Myth

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The issue of states' rights "is a myth that was settled once and for all in the Federalist papers and the subsequent adoption of the Constitution of the United States," Postmaster General John A. Gronouski says.

Gronouski, speaking here Sunday at dedication ceremonies for Athens' new post office, made that assertion as he attacked those persons "who under the sanctimonious mantle of states' rights not only oppose new federal programs but also call for repeal of those already in existence."

In what apparently was a reference to view that have been attributed to Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate Gronouski said:

"In essence, they would legislate us back into the 19th century. To cite two examples, they would sell TVA and abolish social security, two of the most progressive and far-sighted programs of modern times."

"The next logical step, of course, is to turn the defense establishment over to a private detective agency and sell the post office to a mail order house."

Cleveland Youth Dies Following Street Fight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Peter F. Grabinski Jr., 18, of Cleveland died at Mount Sinai Hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered in a street fight with two other youths.

Police said Grabinski hurt his head when he fell to the pavement during the fight early Sunday. The two other youths were being sought for questioning.

Community Committeemen Ballots Mailed by ASCS

A slate of nominees for Community Committeemen was announced today by the Pickaway Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service.

Committeemen eventually elected will help administer the various farm programs that will be carried out in 1964-65 by the ASCS. Ballots listing the nominees have been mailed to all known eligible voters.

Galen D. Mowery, chairman of the ASC County Committee, said ballots should be mailed or returned in person to the local ASCS office, 206 S. Court St., so they will be received no later than Aug. 5.

Ballots received by the closing date will be publicly tabulated starting 9 a. m. Aug. 7. The counting will be conducted at the local office.

MOWERY said questions on eligibility to vote or hold office or on election procedure will be settled by the County Committee subject to appeal to the Ohio ASC Committee.

Here are the townships and the nominees in each:

Circleville — Wayne L. Bower, Ralph F. Dreisbach, Ralph E. Dunkel, Walter H. Eccard, Ralph McDill and Robert A. Smith.

Darby — Roger Barton, James C. Bayes, Darrell Furniss, Miles A. Kahler, James Musselman, Richard McPherson.

Deercreek — Lawrence Ater, Joseph A. Carle, Merrill W. Carmean, Clarence Clark, Lovell Hammond, John R. Lake and James Sykes.

Reginald Kenneth Ingram, the Negro chief of the Air Force's Equal Employment Opportunity Office, said, "If I were to try to say to these boys that they should act with caution or even try to advise them in any way, I'm certain that I would be booed."

The boys showed how willing they were to flex muscles Friday night at the street dance when patrolmen Roger Bacon and Anthony Cerretto attempted to arrest a disorderly young man.

"We ended up on the ground with the guy, putting the cuffs on him," said Cerretto. "The crowd wanted him and they got between us."

Fifty or more young men pushed in to keep the handcuffed youth from being taken to the police station. It was this incident that started the riot.

Sparacino, the youth division expert, knows by sight most of the city's juvenile delinquents and other young offenders.

"But to tell you the truth," he said, "these are kids I've never seen before. They're not the usual juvenile delinquents. I don't know where they come from. I know one we got in is a good high school and another is an athlete in high school."

"It's the system they are fighting, baby," explains Denny. "The boys feel the system is against them, and it is."

It was difficult for some of the Negro boys to articulate their feelings, but one, a rather thin boy who looked like he could be a chorus dancer, said: "It's like you're standing and across the way there is that store and the cats is saying, 'Let's go eat on whitey,' or 'Whitey, he going to give me a birthday suit, man.' We laughing and pushing and talking big."

"Doing it is knowing that the fuzz is coming. I mean any cat can reach in for a bunch a bananas if the Girl Scouts is watching, but the thing is, will you do it when you know the po-leece is just around the corner and coming."

"It's like you got to make the scene or the chicks will put you down as nothin'. I mean, you got to go. Ya dig?"

LET'S EXPLORE OHIO

STATE PARKS

such as swimming, picnicking, hiking, fishing, boating, tent camping, and nature study.

Blue Rock is a 337-acre State Reserve with a 15-acre lake. It lies just off Ohio's most scenic highway, Route 77, a few miles south of Dun-can Falls and within ten miles of Zanesville. This makes it easily accessible to a large portion of Ohio's population and it also draws heavily from Pennsylvania.

Down where the foothills of the Alleghenies begin to rise out of the Ohio Country is one of the State's most popular parks, Blue Rock State Reserve.

This is not one of Ohio's largest State Parks, but it offers outdoor enthusiasts a wide variety of attractions.
